1969 Black and Gold

Volume LVIII

R.J. Reynolds High School

Winston-Salem, North Carolina

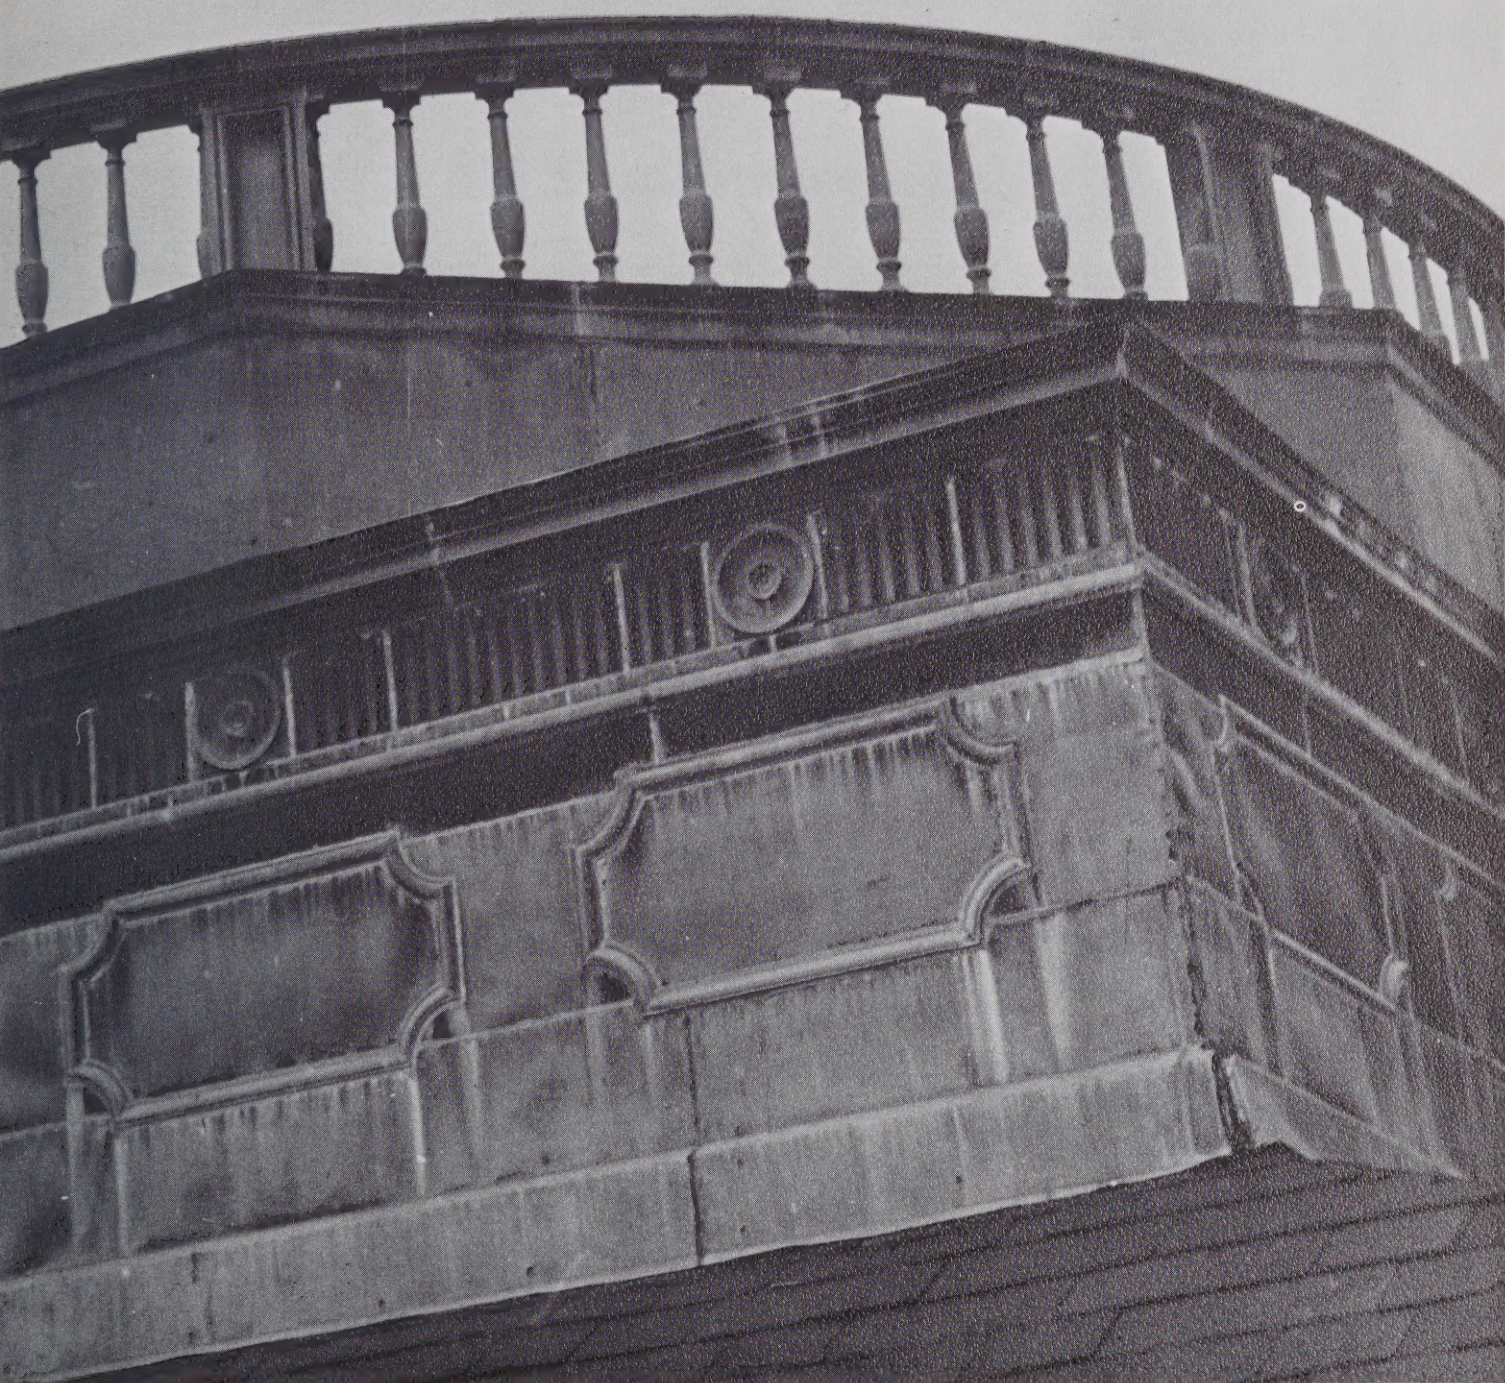

Although we approached Reynolds fearfully, we learned that she was more than just a school. Our years at Reynolds revealed to us her mass of valuable opportunities.

As editors of the 1969 Black and Gold, we, hoping to offer students a chance to relive exciting moments experienced at school, have attempted to spotlight various aspects of Reynolds.

Thrilling football games, impossible exams, exhausting basketball games, thought-provoking lectures, and serious chapels are just a few of the aspects of Reynolds High School. Through the following pages the 1969 Black and Gold Staff has chosen those aspects which seem to be the most prominent at Reynolds. Although many different students' awards and sports can be seen in the pictures, all these aspects unite to form our wonderful school.

DEDICATION

Seniors honor football mentor

During his years at Reynolds High School, Mr. Herman Bryson has earned the friendship and admiration of students and co-workers.

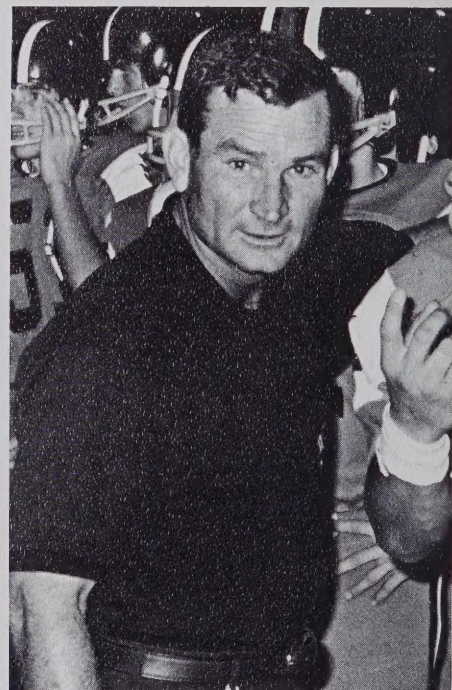

Dedicated to sports, Mr. Bryson's day does not end with his seventh period gym class. He spends many unselfish and devoted hours as head coach of the varsity football team. Leading the Reynolds team to three Central 4-A championships in three years, Mr. Bryson was named coach of the year for two consecutive years.

To Mr. Herman Bryson, who has proved himself to be a friend and a credit to Reynolds, we, the senior Class, dedicate the 1969 Black and Gold.

Mr. Bryson shows a depressed look as he paces the field.

Snow days haunt administrative officials

Mr. Ward, as executive head of the school system, administers the business affairs of the school system and supervises all school employees.

He, together with his two associates and three assistant superintendents, conducts research concerning educational problems of the school and community, and initiates programs based on their findings.

Composed of both the School Board and Administrative Staff, the Board of Education is the policy-determining body and delegates all executive functions to the Superintendent. It adopts the annual budget request which is presented to the Board of County Commissioners.

Eugene Johnston, assistant superintendent; C. T. Leinbach, comptroller; Raymond Sarbaugh, associate superintendent; Marvin Ward, superintendent; Ned Smith, associate superintendent; Robert Blevins, assistant superintendent; Leo Morgan, assistant superintendent.

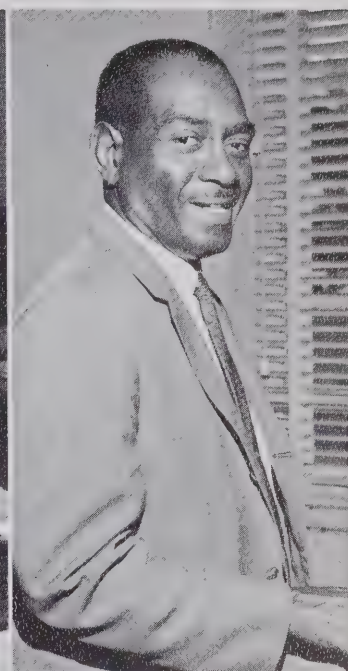

Combination of three makes Reynolds the best

Mr. Robert Deaton, B.S., M.A.
Principal of Reynolds High School

Mr. Joe Hauser, B.S., M.A.
Mr. Hauser, in his fourth year as assistant principal, has become an invaluable asset to Reynolds. He supervises the routine work of the administration, as well as that of many academic problems.

Mr. William Bryant, A.B., M.A.
Mr. Bryant, originally from Rocky Mount, joined the Reynolds' Administration as assistant principal this year. Having served as teacher-coach at Winston-Salem State College and at Paisley High School, he has had much experience in handling student problems.

Mr. Deaton faces endless decisions

Mr. Robert Deaton

Mr. Deaton, as principal of Reynolds, is head of the school, representative to the city administration, and friend to the faculty and student body. Parent, teacher, student, and community relationships are his main concern as he strives to improve the service Reynolds renders to each individual. Checking the eligibility of a boy for a sport, making recommendations for a future job, and spending school funds wisely are a few of the responsibilities directed to Mr. Deaton's office.

While away from the school Mr. Deaton, an athlete at heart, enjoys all sporting events, and engages much of his spare time in playing golf.

In Memoriam

Mrs. Mary Snipes Pearce

1916 – 1968

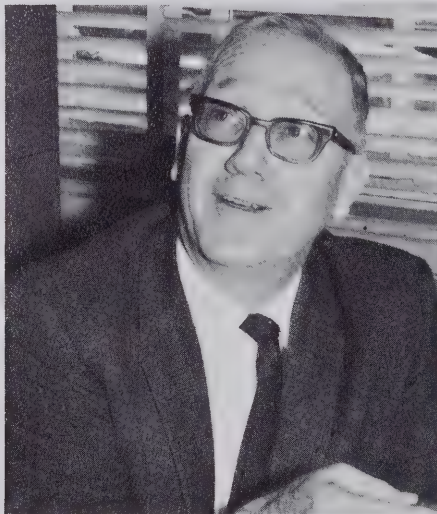

Mrs. Mary Snipes Pearce served her school by striving to instill in her students the true values of education over and above textbook facts. Her uniqueness was her devotion to her students. This devotion endears her to us. Mrs. Pearce gave unselfishly to her students, and this remains a part of Reynolds forever.

Computer's blunder keeps guidance

Miss Janie Weaver, A.B.
As head of the Guidance (ulcer) Department, Miss Weaver keeps busy with transcripts, and schedules. In her free time she enjoys the challenge of teaching. When not doing school work, she needle points, travels, and reads.

Mr. Robert P. Jones, B.S.; M.E.
A graduate of Appalachian State University, Mr. Jones enjoys sports, and making crafts in his own workshop in addition to his counseling of Reynolds juniors.

Mrs. Ruby Harris, A.B.; M.E.
Aside from helpfully guiding RJR sophomores, Mrs. Harris' main interest is her family. She also is fond of interior decorating, and working in her yard.

Although society tends to be moving toward a computer age, there is still no replacement for the human mind and manual labor. This fact could be seen clearly this year as the RJR guidance counselors rectified the various mistakes that the space age machines made.

Not only do the counselors cope with schedules, but they also help seniors choose the appropriate college or vocation.

Library provides calm conditions for learning

Mrs. Elizabeth Sink, B.A., M.A.

In 1965 Mrs. Sink turned from teaching Advanced Placement English at Reynolds to full-time work in the library. Collecting appropriate books for the library is her specialty.

Mrs. Elizabeth Stroupe, A.B.

During the summer Mrs. Stroupe took a course in audio-visual aids to upgrade her professional librarian standing. This year she is specializing in our library audio-visual materials.

Helpfully and courteously, Mrs. Sink and Mrs. Stroupe conduct the library in such a way as to provide a place for study, research and thought. Spirited voices, shuffling feet, and vivacious personalities become subdued in the calm found here.

Opening at eight o'clock in the morning and closing at four o'clock in the afternoon, the library's functions are devoted entirely to broadening the knowledge of the student body and faculty.

counselors busy

Mrs. Mary Hart

Serving her fifth year at Reynolds, Mrs. Hart does book-keeping, secretarial tasks, and is treasurer to the school. In her leisure time Mrs. Hart likes to be with her grandchildren.

Mrs. Mae McCuen

Being a "helping hand" to students and teachers is the main function of Mrs. McCuen, the school secretary. When not mimeographing or sending students home for illness, she delights in knitting and reading.

Mrs. Betty Burke

When not dedicating her time to keeping school records straight or helping students and teachers, Mrs. Burke, the guidance office secretary, knits, sews, and travels for pleasure.

HISTORY

Modern teaching facilities head team teaching unit

Separated from the main building, the history department this year became a pleasure to Reynolds students.

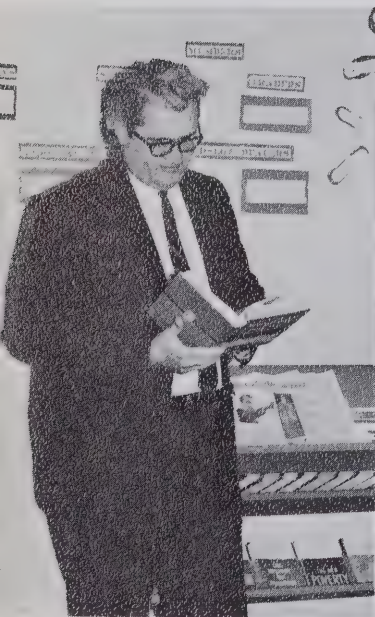

Equipped with a reading room and classrooms capable of being converted into any required number of rooms, the department developed modern techniques in teaching. One such method was team teaching.

Mr. McLean Mitchell, B.A.; M.A.
New concepts are hallmarks of Reynolds history department under the direction of Mr. Mitchell. Varied methods of presenting subjects promote much participation by the students in his class.

Mrs. Hazel Flack, B.A.
U.S. History and Government students find class lectures enlivened by Mrs. Hazel Flack's informing and oftentimes amusing comments. Mrs. Flack, for the first time, sponsored the Student Council this year.

Mr. Charles Ragland, B.A.
Team teaching is a new idea for Mr. Ragland who teaches two periods of U.S. History under this experimental concept. When not preparing for tomorrow's lesson, he enjoys collecting coins.

Miss Margaret Benbow, A.B.; M.A.T.
A graduate of Reynolds, Miss Benbow likes to participate in the American History team teaching experiment. She also teaches Sociology, and in her spare time enjoys swimming, knitting, bridge, and reading.

Mr. Noland Thuss, A.B.
Mr. Thuss provides his students with an up-to-date outlook on European History and Contemporary Affairs. He is working toward his master's degree through a teaching program offered by the University of North Carolina.

Miss Annie Graham Caldwell, A.B.; B.S.
An avid Reynolds' booster, Miss Caldwell exerts her many energies by sponsoring the varsity cheerleaders and Pep Board Council. Some of her other interests include cooking and flower arranging.

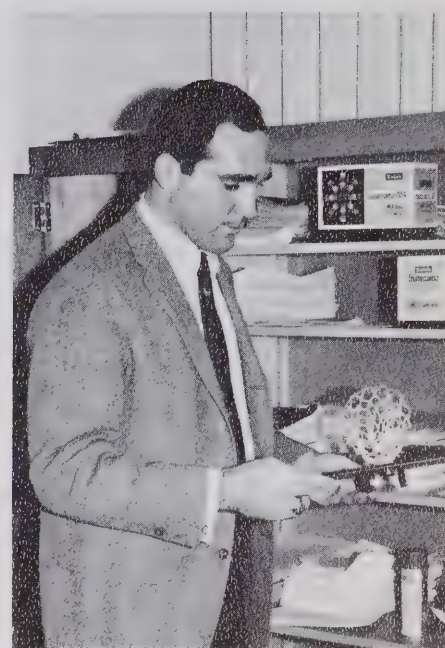

Comfort accommodates "historians"

Book shelves, filing cabinets, and bulletin boards, served as room dividers for the history department during its first few months.

Mr. Otis Hawkins, B.S.
Coaching on our conference championship football team has already made his first year at Reynolds a good one for Mr. Hawkins, who teaches P.E. and history. His spare minutes are consumed with basketball and football.

Mr. Howard Hurt, B.A.
When not lecturing to his U.S. History classes or coaching the varsity basketball team, Mr. Hurt enjoys being a father to his new son.

Mr. Martin Wall, B.S.
From marriage counselor to psychiatrist, Mr. Wall aids his Sociology and Family Living classes daily in coping with their problems. A newcomer at Reynolds, Mr. Wall has already earned the appreciation of his students.

Mrs. Joann Raulerson, B.A.
Sponsoring the Campus Life club at Reynolds supplements Mrs. Raulerson's job of teaching sophomores and seniors the facts of the Renaissance in European History.

Mr. Philip Ashley, B.S.
In his third year at Reynolds, Mr. Phillip Ashley uses a direct forceful manner to convey the thoughts of his World History lectures. After school hours, his enjoyment is centered around golf, tennis and reading.

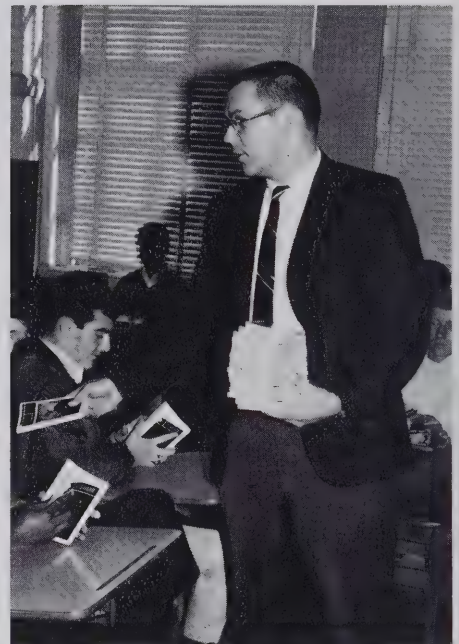

Mr. Bill Sipes, B.S.; M.Ed.
Moving from a Texas high school to Reynolds posed no problems for Mr. Sipes who teaches U.S. History and Everyday Government.

Mrs. Ann Williams, B.S.
After teaching English at Page for four years, Mrs. Williams now teaches junior English at Reynolds. Among her many enjoyments are reading, crafts, and collecting antiques.

Miss Lucille Edwards, A.B.
Senior English students find their horizons in English literature dramatically broadened after a year under Miss Edwards' guidance. These students also learn skills helpful in composition writing in college.

Mr. Jack Tesh, B.A.
After an active day of teaching English to interested seniors, Mr. Tesh divides his time equally by coaching our football team as well as our JV basketball and baseball teams.

Mrs. Mary Boyles, A.B.; M.A.
Students learn the intricacies of Advanced Composition from Mrs. Boyles. In addition, Mrs. Boyles teaches English III and IV and finds time to read and write a little.

Mrs. Erlene Martin, A.B.
Introducing a program of advanced English literature to her classes, Mrs. Martin prepares her seniors for the forthcoming years of college English.

Mrs. Nancy Lamb, B.A.
When not being mistaken for a student, Mrs. Lamb familiarizes her juniors with modern novels and formal compositions. Besides helping to sponsor the cheerleaders, she is fond of oil painting.

Miss Elizabeth Kapp, A.B.
Besides being busily occupied as head of the English Department and sponsor of the Senior Marshals, Miss Kapp takes pleasure in discussing American Literature and English composition with her students.

ENGLISH

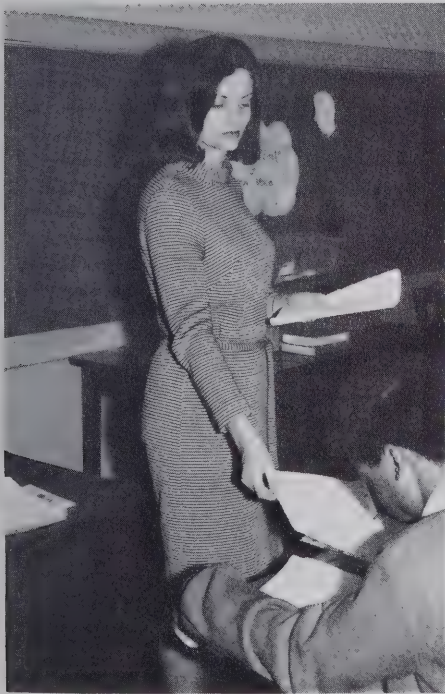

"To be or not to be. . . ."

Composed of basic composition, comprehensive reading and the all-but familiar grammar, the English department, headed by Miss Kapp, instructed nearly 1900 students during the 1968-69 school year.

Delving into vast areas of knowledge in literature, the English faculty stressed the importance of finding a "deeper" meaning in an author's work which a student can relate to himself.

To encourage student interest and to satisfy a growing need, certain interest-centered courses have evolved. Among these are courses in dramatics, speech, creative writing, advanced place-

Mrs. Mary Jane Tolley, A.B.
Teaching one sophomore English class in addition to four junior English classes, Mrs. Tolley finds enjoyment in various areas. Among her many pleasures are swimming, hiking, and German shepherd dogs.

Mrs. Janice Owings, A.B.; M.A.
Busy students, writing, typing, and organizing, learn to produce the Black and Gold and Pine Whispers with the patience and supervision of Mrs. Janice Owings. She also teaches sophomore English and sponsors the Quill and Scroll.

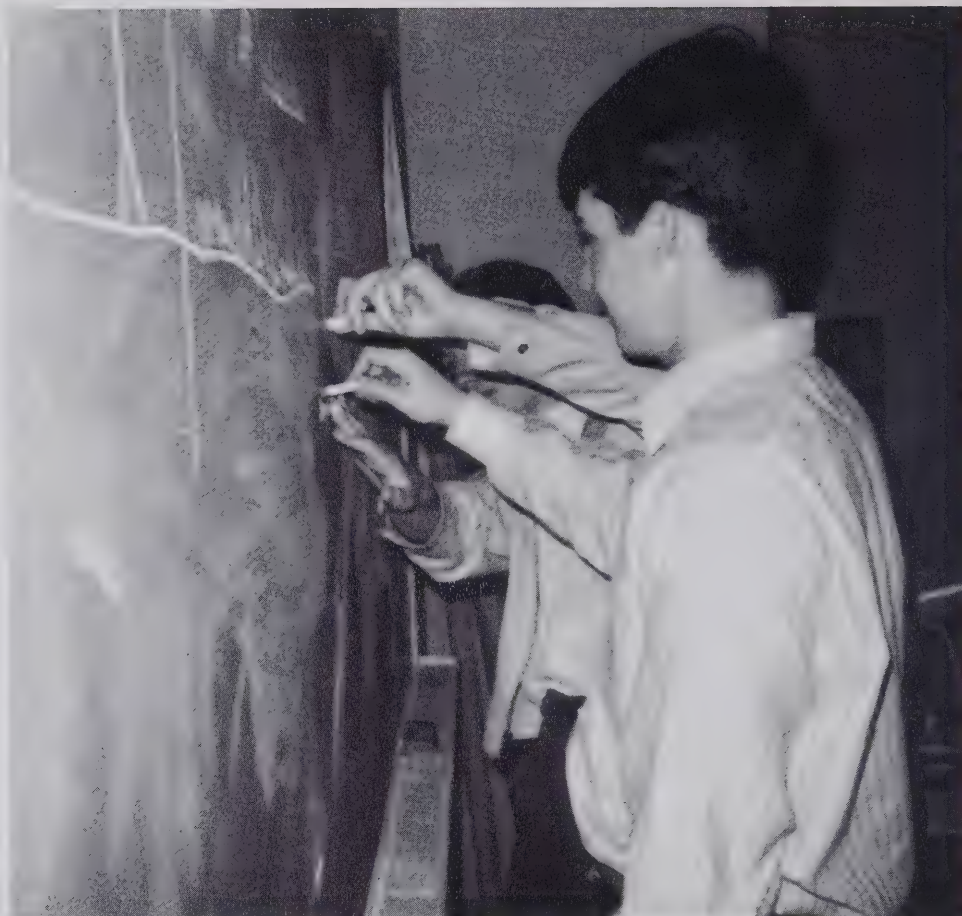

Mrs. Marjorie Stephenson, B.A.
In addition to teaching to sophomores the structure of English and its best usage, Mrs. Stephenson also serves as Dean of Girls, sponsor of the Sophoteers, and supervisor of the nurse's room.

English prepares students for future endeavors ment and selective literature. All of these have been entered into by ambitious students eager to add strength and depth to basic knowledge gained from similar courses.

Because of its great importance in every phase of life, English is required through a student's entire high school course.

Junior boys prepare themselves for more complicated composition as they test their skills in diagramming.

Mrs. Evelyn Garrison, A.B.
Literature and grammar come alive for sophomores in Mrs. Garrison's English classes. She also teaches public speaking and coaches the debating team. Reading is her favorite pastime.

Miss Jackie Bullard, B.S.
When not teaching English fundamentals or delving into English literature, Miss Jackie Bullard sponsors the Dancing Boots and Majorettes.

Mrs. Marie Moore, B.A.
Coming to Reynolds with eight years of experience, Mrs. Moore takes delight in revealing the intricacies of the English language to her students. After hours, she spends her time reading various kinds of literature with a strong interest in poetry.

Mrs. Sara Angel, B.S.; S.A.
Aside from her Distributive Education classes, Mrs. Angel sponsors the DECA chapter at Reynolds. Her spare time is devoted to her family, with added interests in sewing, knitting, and camping.

BUSINESS

Business mechanics influential

With a growing demand for people who are skilled in typing, shorthand, bookkeeping, business English, and law, the Reynolds Commercial department has continued in an attempt to keep business offices fully staffed.

Typing can prove to be beneficial whether one intends to go into business or choose some other career. Compositions for high school and college tend to stress their ideas more distinctly when prepared by keyboard. Lectures are more easily followed, as thoughts are expressed in clear form by a well-written shorthand.

Whatever the reason for one's taking these courses, he can be sure that the use of such clerical skills will be demonstrated during some phase of his life.

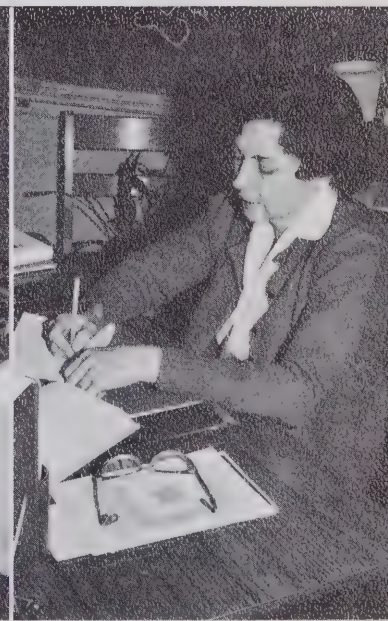

Mrs. Hazel Mitchell, A.B. M.E.
Mrs. Mitchell, typing and shorthand teacher, finds great pleasure in traveling to New York with her husband's A.P. history class. When not traveling, she enjoys Broadway plays, symphonies, and concerts.

Mrs. Clara FitzHugh, B.S. M.E.
Mrs. Clara FitzHugh guides business students through the mechanics of Business Law, Bookkeeping, and Record Keeping. Teaching at Forsyth Tech and Winston-Salem Business College occupies her spare time.

Mrs. Valjeanne Smith, B.S.
Having unending patience is a great asset to Mrs. Valjeanne Smith, who teaches typing and business math. In her spare moments, she creates her own wardrobe.

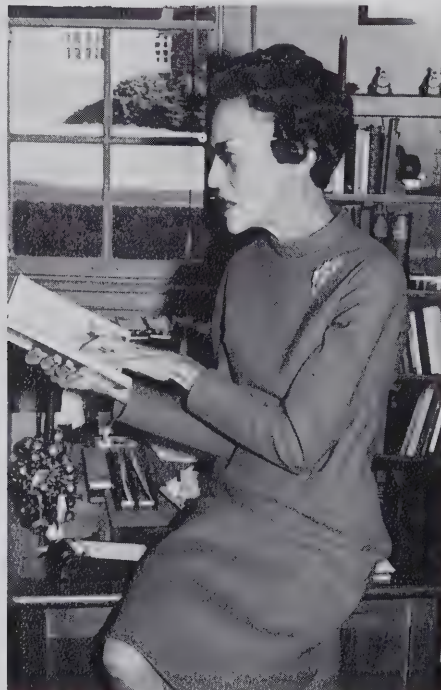

Mrs. Louise Still, B.A.
... Click, click, click, Bing! This is a familiar sound as one passes room 209. Mrs. Still lives daily with the sound except when instructing students in shorthand.

Long climbs to fourth floor compounded by seventh period "blues" prove trying for Mr. Morrison's Spanish class.

Mrs. Margaret McDermott, A.B., M.E.
Combining the perplexity of Latin and the eternity of mythology with her colorful anecdotes and illustrations, Mrs. McDermott instills in her students the love of ancient Greek and Roman civilizations and culture.

Mrs. Eloise Curlee, A.B., M.A.
In her first year at Reynolds, Mrs. Curlee teaches classes in both Latin and German. When not busy with classroom-related work, she enjoys entertaining.

Miss Jean Binkley, B.A.
Returning to her own alma mater to teach, Miss Binkley teaches Latin and sophomore English, and enjoys music, piano in particular, and reading as her hobbies.

FOREIGN LANGUAGES

Students' horizons broadened

As men are continually brought together from all parts of the world by scientific and technical advances, they are still separated by language barriers. The language department at Reynolds, headed by Mrs. McDermott, strives to correct that gap.

Language, an important part of a liberal education, is a gradual process requiring much patience. Reynolds' teachers provide that patience.

Familiarizing students not only with the language, but the culture associated with it, the department hopes to stimulate students to deeper study of the language.

Reynolds' language department is trying to give the world something it needs—communication.

Reynolds offers its students first through fourth-year courses in Spanish, French, Latin, and German.

Mrs. Aileen Hepler, B.A.; M.A.T.
Mrs. Hepler teaches her German classes with an interest and understanding for students. Mrs. Hepler takes an active part in sponsoring the German Club.

Miss Vea Snyder, B.A.
Having taught ambassador's children in Paris, Miss Snyder has concrete experience to support her method of teaching French III and IV. For pleasure she participates in traveling, camping, canoeing, and snow-skiing.

Mrs. Clarice Parker, A.B.; M.A.
Enjoying the quietness of the fourth floor, Mrs. Parker thinks that her sophomores are a challenge. She enjoys teaching them French I and English II.

Mrs. Janie Donaldson, A.B.
When not drilling French II and III students in grammar and correct pronunciation, Mrs. Donaldson delights in playing bridge, knitting, and taking care of her family.

Languages promote communication of man

Giving the teachers a "helping hand" the language lab, headed by Mrs. Hamrick, is a helpful source for the students to hear their own mistakes on tape or to listen to a native speaker.

Bringing their language to reality some clubs held banquets with food and entertainment from their native country.

Mrs. Elsa Hampton, B.A.
Being a native Cuban, Mrs. Elsa Hampton is able to make Spanish II, III, and IV very enjoyable. She co-sponsors the Spanish Club and delights in painting and piano playing.

Mr. Charles Morrison, B.S.
Newcomer to Reynolds, Mr. Morrison supports his Spanish teaching with actual experience gained from several trips to Venezuela, Colombia, and Ecuador. He enjoys working out at the Y.M.C.A. gym on the week-ends.

Mrs. Hortensia Villalon, B.S.
Sponsor of the Spanish Club, Mrs. Villalon formerly taught English in Cuba; now she finds pleasure in teaching five Spanish classes at Reynolds. Among her interests are cats, knitting, and reading mysteries.

Mrs. Elizabeth Hamrick
In her third year at Reynolds, Mrs. Hamrick has become a well-known personality as she guides teachers and students in the use of electronic equipment for language learning in the Language Lab.

Patty Hughes poses Lee Morrison a whimsical question as she listens to a French tape.

Sophomores grimace at view of morbid "Signal 30"

Mr. Bob Cox, A.B.
With a smile of encouragement and great confidence in his fellow man, Mr. Cox instructs Driver Education courses at Reynolds. He serves as assistant coach for football and head baseball coach.

Mr. Michael Pelech, A.B.
Mr. Pelech, with his steady nerves and sense of humor, helps students realize that driving is a full-time job as well as a pleasure.

Driver's Education is a familiar word to all would-be Reynolds' drivers. Compulsory for a North Carolina license, the course strives to produce safe and defensive drivers for our public highways.

After one is able to forego the first obstacle—that of confidence—the basic fundamentals are easily conquered.

Much patience and practice go into that small white card declaring one's ability to drive a motor vehicle, but somehow it seems all worth it.

Industrial Arts Club sponsors Christmas toy drive

An expanded Industrial Arts department with partially re-modeled facilities and a larger faculty once again trained Reynolds students in drafting as well as shop.

Though the year started with the new surroundings not quite complete, Mr. Driver, Mr. Mock, and Mr. Taylor were able to settle down the department in its "new" home for another year at the drawing board.

One of the highlights of the year was the annual Christmas toy drive during which the student body contributed over 1,200 new and repairable toys. This was four times last year's number.

Mr. Clark Taylor, B.S.
Mr. Clark O. Taylor, drafting and woodworking instructor, sponsors the Industrial Arts Club. He also coaches football, basketball, and tennis, and spends his spare time with photography and drawing house plans. Mr. Taylor is the head of the Industrial Arts Department.

Mr. Jack Driver
Under the supervision of Mr. Driver, machine shop instructor, many students learn a skill that will enable them to contribute to local industry. He finds relaxation in fishing and golf.

Mr. Benny Mock, B.S.
Although a newcomer to Reynolds, Mr. Benny Mock is already popular with the students of his math and industrial arts classes. Like all craftsmen, he devotes much time to making things out of wood.

Future scientists explore the lab

Though scientific materials remain basically constant, modern teaching methods have produced a revolutionary change in the substance of science courses. The Reynolds' Science Department concentrates on these methods in using the technique of inquiry as a foundation for science curricula.

To accompany the new teaching methods, the department possesses labs abreast of the times. The biology labs, renovated this year, are comprised of such things as sterilizers, incubators, aquariums, terrariums, and even hamster cages.

During experiments, the science instructors emphasize the "why" factor of the results, rather than the exactness of them.

On this level, biology students have experimented with biochemistry, genetics, and the relation of anti-biotics on the growth of bacteria.

Physics, chemistry, physical science, Advanced Placement Biology, and Advanced Placement Chemistry have given students the opportunity of researching the "why" of our existence.

Scientific knowledge has the potential to change the environment of man. Because of this factor, the department makes an effort to encourage students to pursue scientific studies.

Miss Mataline Collette, B.A.; M.E. Double laboratory periods for the first time have given Miss Collette a chance to delve deeper into the wonders of science with her Chemistry classes. She also heads the Science Department.

Mr. Harry W. Wilson, A.B. Teaching classes and conducting labs in regular and Advanced Placement chemistry takes much of Mr. Wilson's time. He likes to visit his home state of Ohio during holidays.

Mrs. Catherine Steelman, B.S.; M. Ed. Co-sponsoring the National Honor Society, Mrs. Catherine Steelman teaches Honors Biology and sophomore biology.

Mr. Arthur Woodward, A.B. A graduate of Wake Forest, Mr. Woodward taught chemistry, physics, and physical science during his first year at Reynolds. An outdoorsman, he finds pleasure in hunting, fishing, and swimming.

Mrs. Kay Kirby, B.S. Teaching biology and BSCS comprises Mrs. Kirby's many interests. Along with lab experiments, Mrs. Kirby's students are occupied by taking notes during class lectures and discussions.

Experiments, experiments, experiments

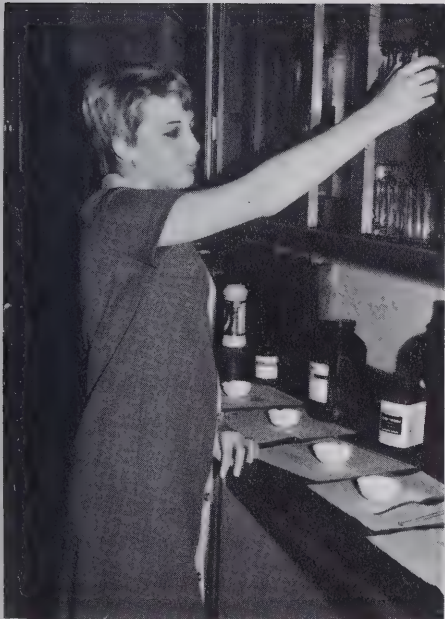

Creations galore abound in the Home Economics class as students become acquainted with domestic skills.

Mrs. Hope L. Harman, B.S.
Housing, Family Relationships, Family Economics, Child Development, Foods, Nutrition, and clothing are the varied and interesting courses offered in Home Economics by Mrs. Harman.

Home Economics, taught by Mrs. Harman, presented sophomore, junior, and senior girls with the basic fundamentals of cooking, sewing, child care, and how to balance a budget.

First year classes were held for beginners in these techniques; whereas, fourth year classes taught girls more advanced in these aspects. One special class was held for senior girls.

Miss Carrol Brown, B.S.
Her first year of teaching at Reynolds has been an enjoyable experience for Miss Brown, an Alabama native who now teaches chemistry. Miss Brown also enjoys tennis, swimming, and sewing.

Mr. Donald Grigg, B.S.; M.A.T.
Providing his classes with interesting films and lectures, Mr. Grigg teaches biology to students from all three grades. Reading and a part time job fill his spare moments.

Miss Shirley McCraw, B.S.
By attending the Co-operative College School Science Project at Wake Forest, Miss McCraw provides a current out-look for her biology and physical science classes. She finds pleasure in sewing, reading, traveling, and the outdoors

Under the direction of Mrs. Lucinda Moser, head of the department, Reynolds again had a strong and well-organized math department. Thorough comprehension and ease in working, were hopefully reached by the individual after many months of purposeful study.

Mrs. Caroline Spencer, B.S.
Willingness to help perplexed students keeps Mrs. Spencer busy after school. Besides teaching algebra and biology, she is the manager of the thousands of books within the bookroom.

Mrs. Mildred Rash, B.S.
Algebra and geometry, always difficult subjects for Reynolds students, are taught deftly by Mrs. Rash. She also sponsors the Red Cross again this year.

Mrs. Lucinda Moser, A.B.
Mrs. Moser, as new head of the Math Department, instructs students in the complexities of Advanced Algebra and Algebra III. Knitting and cooking fill her leisure moments.

Miss Martha Ann Tomlinson, A.B.
During class, the blackboards in Miss Tomlinson's classroom are in constant use while teaching algebra and geometry. Her helpful attitude keeps her classes both interesting and enjoyable.

Mr. Charles Ferree, B.S.
"Making sure my students understand the 'why' of mathematics is my main objective," remarks Mr. Ferree. He, a graduate of N.C. State University, enjoys attending N.C. State and Wake Forest games.

Miss Karon Bush, B.A.
Armed with a pleasant smile and an agreeable personality, Miss Bush enlightens pupils on the principles of geometry and algebra. After school, Miss Bush serves as sponsor of the Serviteers.

Comprehensive study of math is practical for future

Mrs. Nancy White, A.B.
Friendly to everyone, Mrs. White puts forth her enthusiasm to make Solid Geometry and Advanced Algebra a pleasant experience. Sponsoring the House of Representatives takes up most of her leisure time.

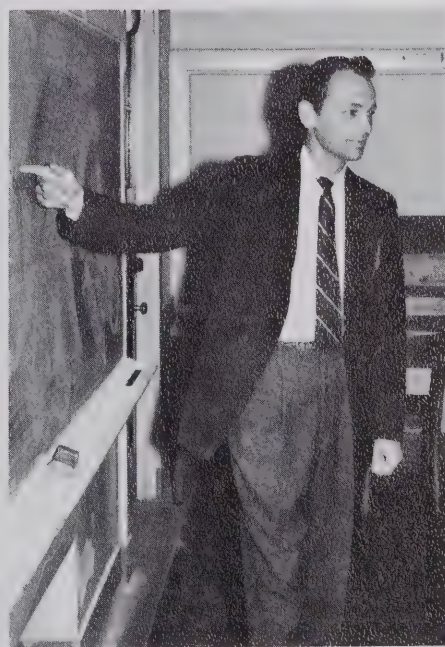

Mrs. Mary Compton, B.S.
With a sincere interest for the Reynolds student, Mrs. Compton makes algebra more interesting with her meaningful explanations. She serves as junior class sponsor.

Mr. Vincent Offerman, B.S.
With his stronger interest being in the mind and talents of the individual, Mr. Offerman conducts classes in Algebra I and Geometry. In his spare time he participates in skiing, swimming or tennis.

Miss Sara Williams, A.B.
Miss Williams knits and reads in her off-hours from teaching algebra and geometry. She served as Serviteers sponsor this year.

Mr. Warren Chilton, A.B.
Mr. Chilton, former mathematics professor at Radford College and Surry Community College, is now teaching classes in both Honors and Advanced Placement Math here at Reynolds.

Mr. William Bingham, B.S.; M.A.
Mr. Bingham spends much of his time teaching his first year classes the fundamentals of algebra. Outside the classroom, he finds pleasure in baseball, basketball and football.

Band and chorus present outstanding chapel music

Although a small group, the orchestra of Reynolds meets once every day to practice and to learn more about the instruments which they play. The seven orchestra members have played for between five and nine years. The orchestra held an exchange program with the Mount Tabor orchestra and played at their school one day. Kyle Meredith and Emily Averill went to the Governor's School last year, and Nancy Anderson made the All-State orchestra this year.

Continuing its tradition of musical excellence this year, the Reynolds High School Band, under the direction of Mr. Robert Smith, performed at athletic contests, whooped it up at pep rallies, and marched in the Christmas parade. The RJR music department also includes the orchestra, directed by Mr. Malcolm.

Under Mr. Harris the chorus bustled with activity. Besides the three chapel concerts, the Mixed Chorus went to the District Meet and the State Choral Festival in March. In addition, the Advanced Chorus sang for the Association of Educational secretaries at Moore Elementary School and also gave a concert at Ardmore Methodist Church in the fall.

"Paint-ins", "clay-ins", and other forms of art were used by Reynolds students to express themselves. With the guidance of Mr. Fox, the art classes tried to achieve true individualism.

Mr. Robert Smith, B.A., M.A.
Without halftime entertainment, football games would not be the same. Mr. Smith directs the marching band as well as the concert, chapel, stage and pep bands.

Mr. John Malcolm, M.M.
Mr. Malcolm, a member of the music department of Winston-Salem/Forsyth School System, spends third period every day with the Reynolds' orchestra.

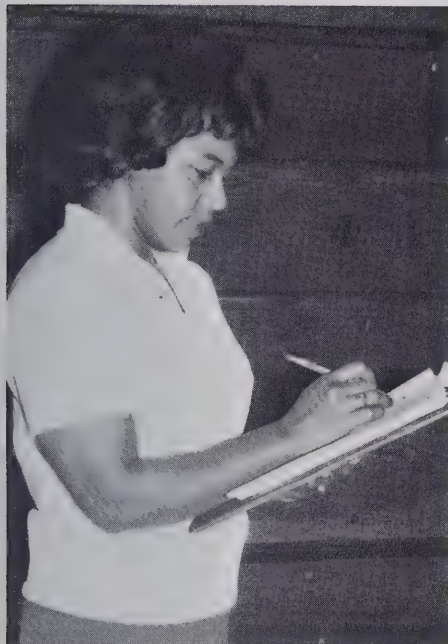

Mr. Douglas Harris, B.S.
When not conducting the chorus or directing the dramatic club, Mr. Harris, an outdoorsman at heart, participates in tennis and handball.

Mr. John Fox
Having studied at four colleges and taught for nine years, Mr. Fox now teaches art at Reynolds and enjoys reading, jazz music, and amateur cabinet making as his hobbies.

Strong bodies continue to produce strong minds

Mrs. Josephine Brower, B.S.; M.S.
Trying to keep Reynolds' girls physically fit allows little free time for Mrs. Brower, girls' physical education instructor. Mrs. Brower co-sponsors the GAA and enjoys reading and listening to jazz.

Although many students think of physical education as secondary in importance to their academic courses, this course helps them in ways which are not so readily recognized or appreciated. Physical education helps build strong, healthy bodies and at the same time gives the students a chance to participate in various sports, including basketball, wrestling, weight lifting, gymnastics and track.

Faculty Section Not pictured: Miss Lillian Rhodes: B.A., M.A.

Miss Linda Nifong, B.S.
In her first year of teaching at Reynolds, Miss Nifong expends her energies by coaching girls' varsity basketball and afternoon intramurals. Making many of her own clothes occupies much of her time.

Mr. Douglas Crater, B.S.; M.A.
From gridiron to wrestling mats, Coach Crater finds time to coach football, wrestling and golf at RJR in addition to his daily schedule as P.E. instructor.

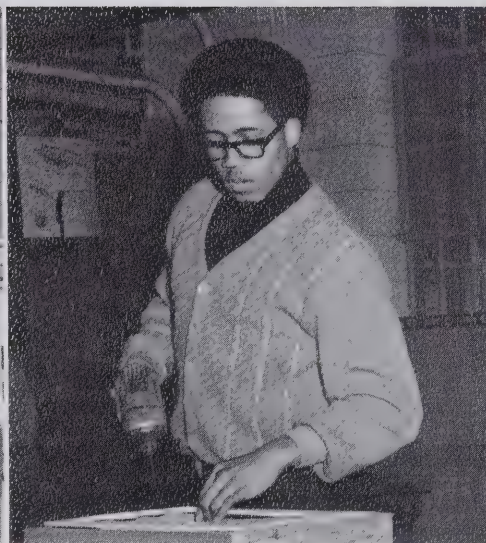

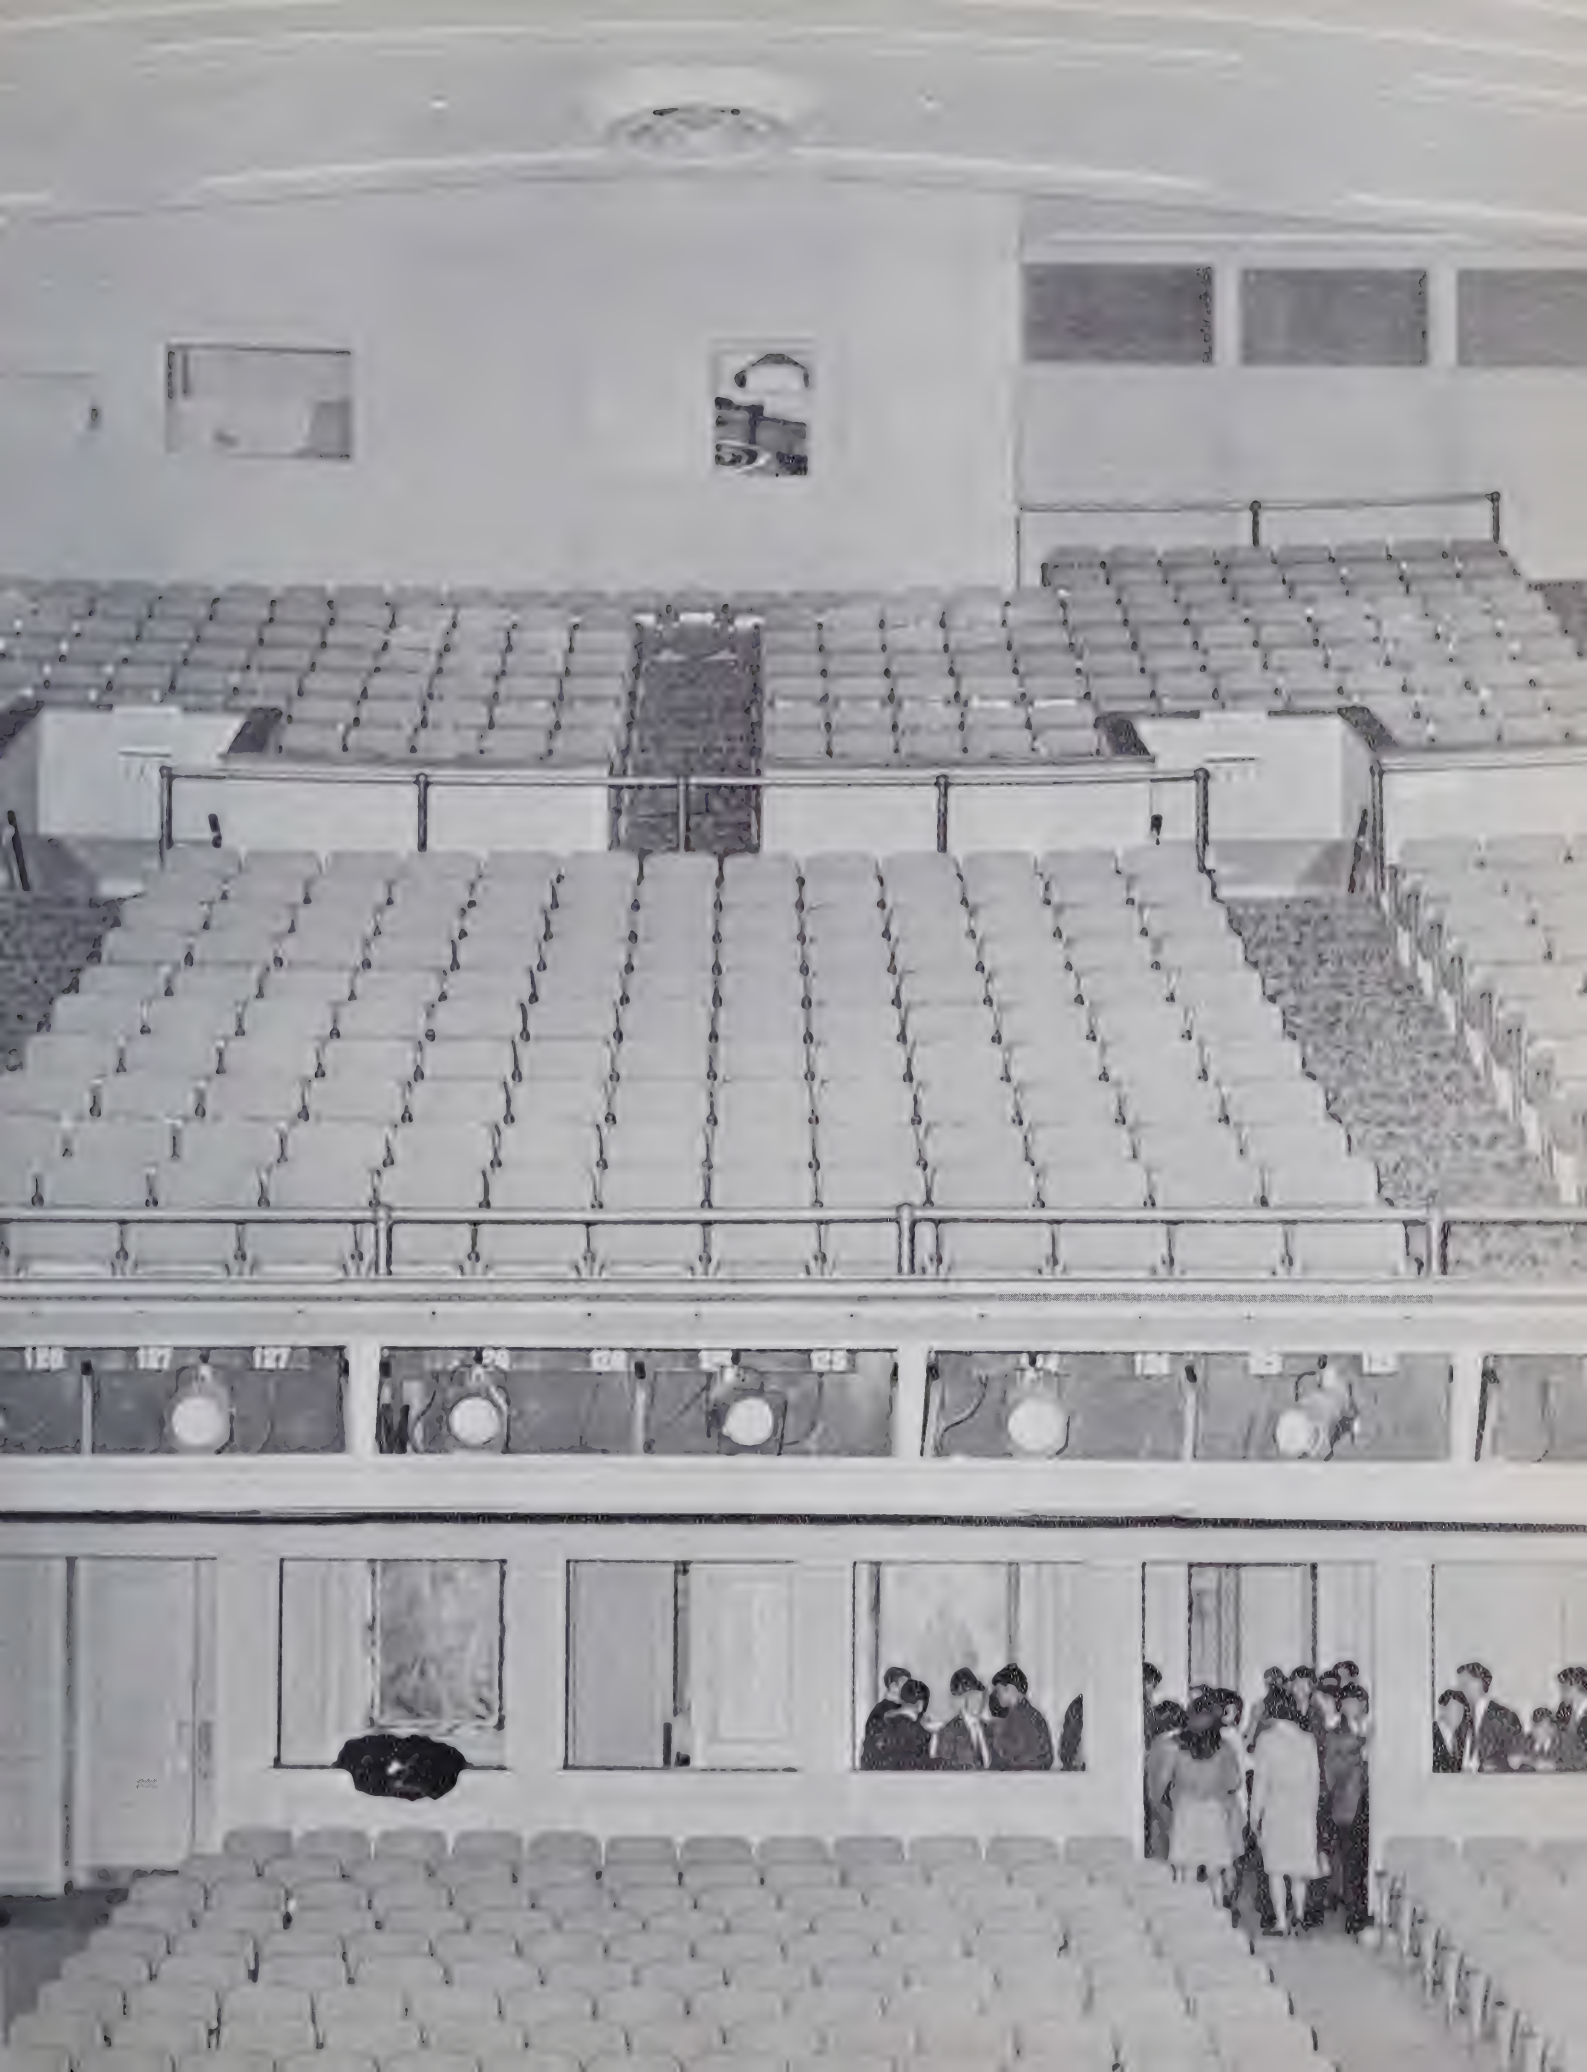

Mr. Herman Bryson, B.S.; M.A.
As head football coach and physical education teacher, Mr. Bryson instructs boys in many of the fundamental sports skills. After the close of football season, Mr. Bryson directs the after-school weight training program.

ASPECTS of Our Personalities

The purpose of Reynolds High School is to teach students to find themselves. It may be in the classroom or on the athletic field. Wherever, it may be, Reynolds is a part of it.

It began in September of 1968 and ended in June 1969. During this nine months' period, everything at Reynolds merged to form "Our Personalities."

"If Winter comes can Spring be far behind?"

For three years we laughed and cried, studied and played. Each of us searched and pursued our areas of talent and expression. We gave to Reynolds and received from her. Now it is over and we are prepared to meet our future, knowing we have fine memories. We are the Class of 1969.

Senior Class Poem — The Afternoon

Stephen Gernot Yountz

The Afternoon

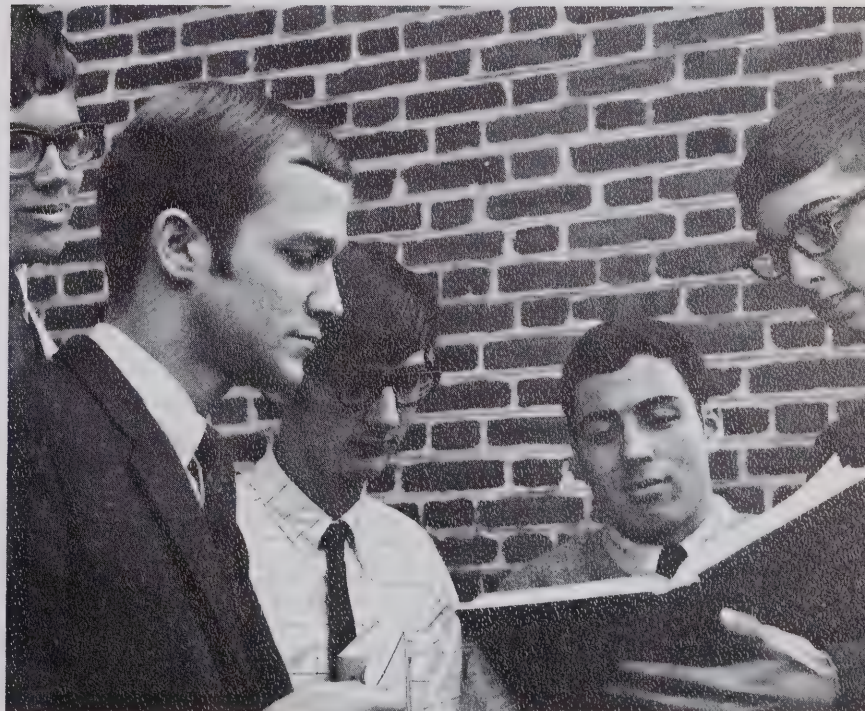

The red-faced building invited the sun—
Invited my eyes, my thoughts . . .
But that was not the time for the beauty to overwhelm me.
Why? I had work to do!
I had to prepare! To grind!
And, most unfortunately, I knew it.
So were my eyes closed to the beauty before me.
While I hurried through my days
While I chattered with my friends,
While I ignored and while I considered,
While I postponed and while I endeavored,
While I rushed through every task and test ahead
Without understanding, without meaning—
While I "learned"—
So did I miss the hidden and yet so evident beauty.
Now, it is sadly too late.
The time is past.

I can recall the fond memories
But can see only a false beauty—an incomplete beauty.
I missed the deep smiles of only those whose frowns I saw.
I missed the excitements of the "boring Ideas."
I see them now,
I see them now!—but it is too late.
Could I have my three years back?
Could I again boast of the pride my school holds?
Could I try this time to see the grand spirit that my unprepared sight had shut out?
The sun falls no longer on the brick facade.
No, not for me.
The slow darkness blankets me.
I must hope for the new morning,
The new sun, when I shall be a better person
But how can I forget the brilliance of this afternoon that so slowly slipped away?

Underclassmen delve into year with enthusiasm

Throughout the past nine years, we eagerly awaited the experience known as high school. Suddenly we were there, and our dreams were becoming reality.

Playing the role of underdog for a whole year, we found our escape in the new environment. Demanding schoolwork, driver education and athletic events were a few of the escapes we discovered.

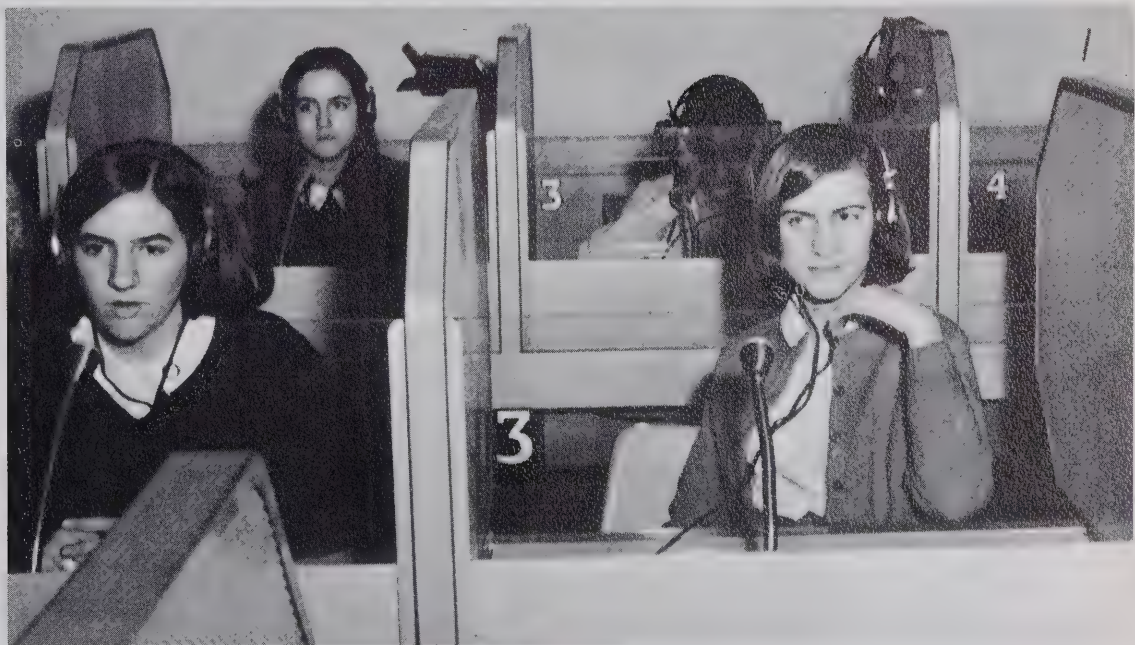

In the halls of RJR we found a different life. It was a year full of new aspects. It was our sophomore year.

Hinshaw, K., v. pres.; McKenzie, N., sec.; Christopher, J., pres.; Duncan, D., treas.

THE traditional "bee-bops" became the true identity of many sophomore girls.

THE language lab offers foreign language students an interesting and unique way to better their knowledge of comprehension and speaking skills.

THE parking lots overflow with cars as sophomores with their licenses are given the opportunity of driving to Reynolds each day.

ASPECTS of Our Fellowship

There was just not enough time to join all the activities we wanted to. Parents became upset when lights were on until 12:30 because we had a meeting after school and were late starting our Macbeth. Stomachs growled when we skipped dinner because of late practices.

We gave up something to join, but we gained so much more from the clubs. Fellowship became enjoyable and we discovered that it was one of the most valuable aspects of Reynolds.

Council bridges pupil, faculty gap

Along with the House of Representatives, the Student Council governs the student activities at Reynolds. Comprised of fifteen members, one of the main functions of the Student Council is to serve on the Honor Court.

ENFORCEMENT of high standards set in the Honor Code dominates most of the Student Council's responsibilities.

Students agree with nation through mock election

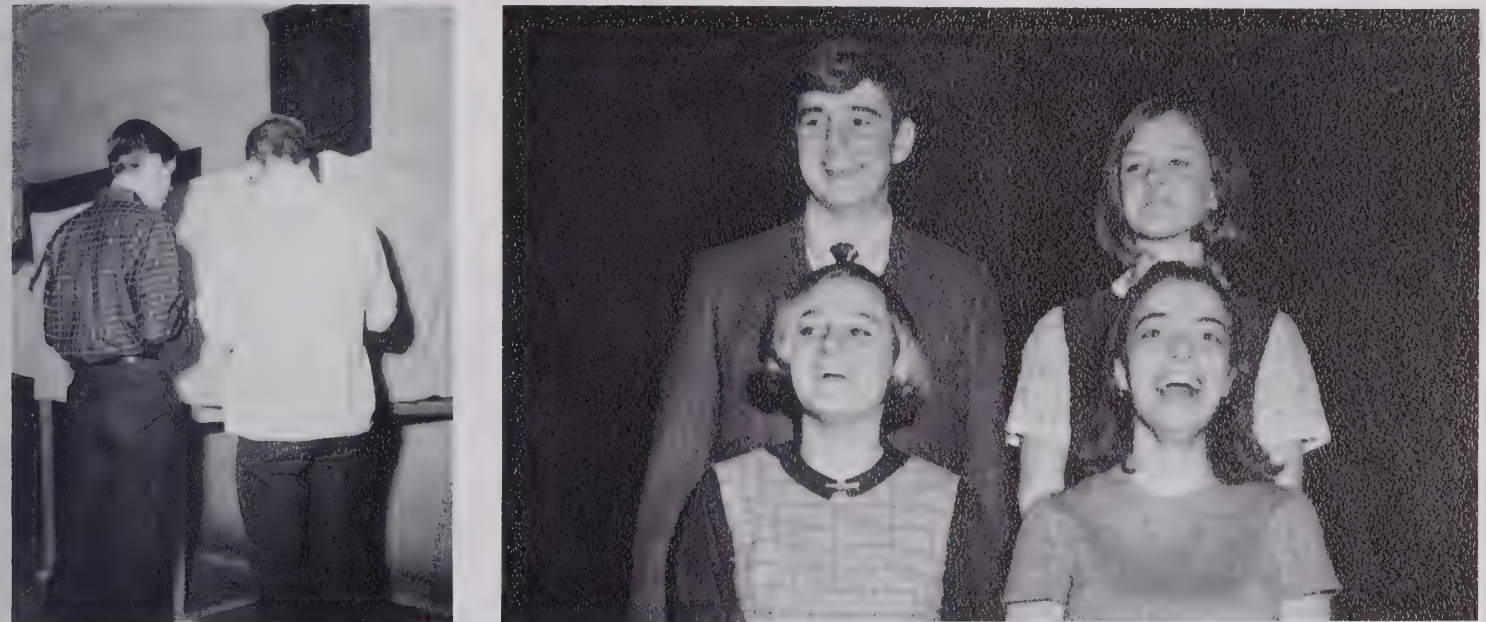

Offering the students an opportunity to help Reynolds, the House of Representatives held meetings once every month. Elected students from each home-room came to the meetings, but anyone wishing to attend could come.

STUDENTS cast ballots in open mock election.

Societies honor student achievements

Meeting on the third Tuesday of every month, the French National Honor Society maintains the purpose of enlightenment on actual culture of the French people.

Inductions are held twice a year; requirements include a high scholastic average, an S on deportment, and three years of classroom French.

Colorful French films and interesting guest speakers formed the substance of the after-school meetings. Sponsored by Miss Vea Snyder, the club acquired greater ease in understanding French.

Every February, a number of junior and senior journalism students become members of one of Reynolds' oldest honor societies, the Quill and Scroll.

Requirements include material printed in a school publication, an S on deportment, and a high scholastic average. Apart from recognition, members obtain subscriptions to the society magazine and supervise distribution of annuals.

TYPING constantly, Allison Blount was invaluable in producing the paper.

Co-operation produces annual

As early as August, the co-editors of the annual applied their journalistic skills in planning the 1969 Black and Gold. Theme, colors, lay-outs and schedules were determined, and the staff began a challenging six months of work toward the February deadline. In May the work was rewarded when the annual returned.

SCRIBBLERS

Scribblers convey imagination

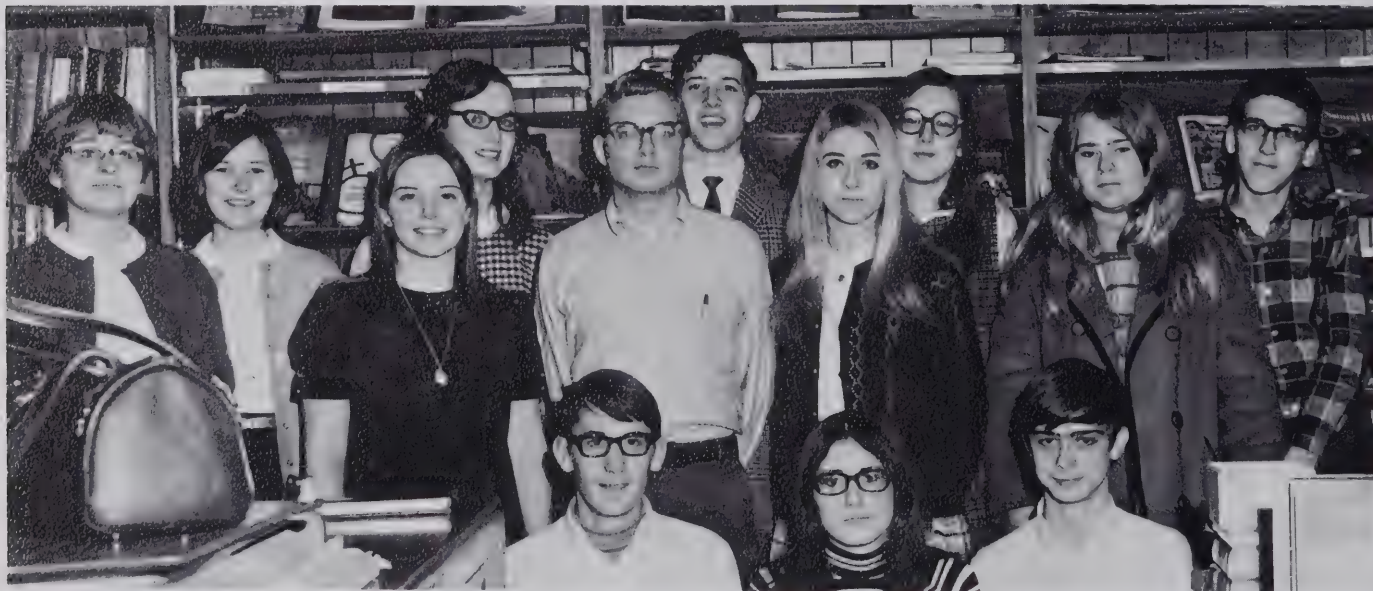

Scenes around school inspired many young writers.

Composing, collecting, and editing creative works were the services of the Scribblers. Any student could submit original work. The goal—a creative spring magazine, The Scribbler, which showed a wide interest in literary expression and a youthful source of talent.

Scribblers with writing talent represent another aspect of Reynolds.

SCRIBBLERS with Larry Holt, pres., Bonnie Teague, v. pres., Dana Hale, sec., and Mark Hall, treas. published a literary magazine.

Club finds debating enjoyable

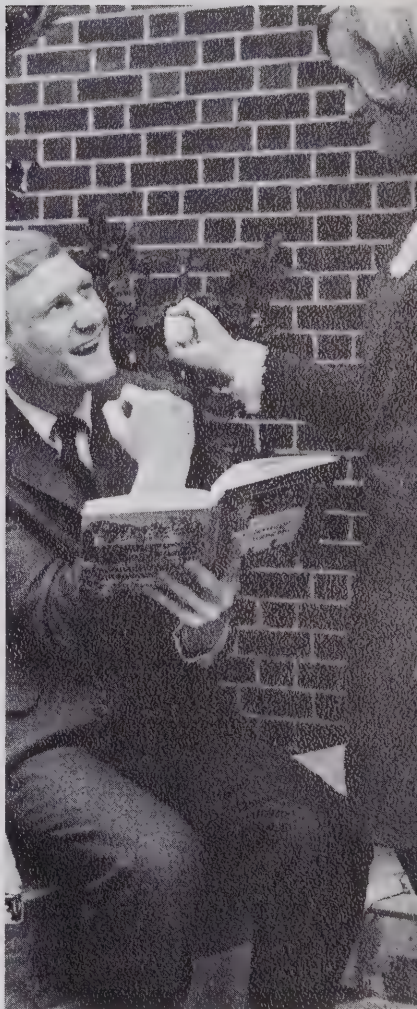

Under the guidance of Mrs. Garrison, the debating club met every Monday to discuss procedure and future plans and activities. All interested students were eligible to participate. Reynolds' debate team competed in the High Point Tournament and the Wake Forest Speech Festival.

Girls select homeroom to serve

Offering sophomore girls an opportunity to assist teachers in washing boards, running errands, and supporting school activities, the Sophoteers co-sponsored the clothing drive and posted club announcements on the bulletin boards in the stairwells.

EAGERLY, bright-eyed sophoteers found satisfaction in serving Reynolds.

FOR the annual food drive, Sophoteers collected canned goods to be distributed to the under-privileged.

COLLECTING clothes for the needy, sophoteers performed valuable community work.

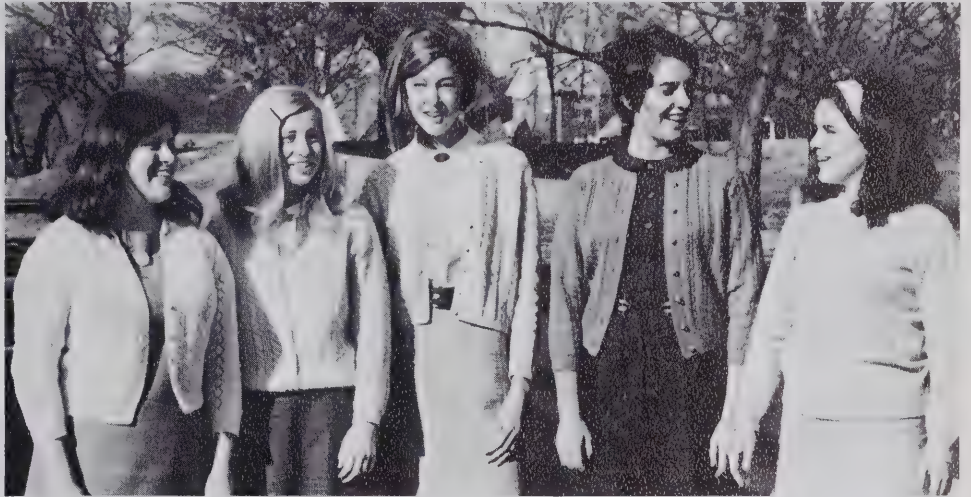

SERVITEERS

Volunteers help out at banquets

Serving the school in any capacity, Serviteers has become one of Reynolds' most active organizations. Through activities of co-sponsoring the clothing drive of Christmas and the food drive of Thanksgiving, these girls displayed their willingness to serve Reynolds.

SSC Challenges Key Club in Services

-Again this year, Senior Service Club lived up to its name by performing many varied services to the school under the leadership of Russell Perry, president of the club. Its members made and distributed the familiar diamond-shaped beat 'em tags on mornings before football games, and did much to promote school spirit.

MIKE WREGE and Stuart Lindsay discuss future plans of the Key Club. Service projects are one of its main functions.

ACTORS

Witty production displays talent

KAREN BELL elaborates on how handsome Lee Morrison is in The Apollo of Bellac.

Determined to learn more about theatrical production and the art of acting were approximately forty students who made up the Drama Club this year, sponsored by Mr. Harris. Each active member gave up much of his spare time to practice and put on a successful production. One play, The Apollo of Bellac, was performed for the student body, and other plays were performed after school.

CONSTANT constructuon of new gym appeared as familiar sight to tireless pages.

Running errands, filing cards, and searching for seemingly "missing" students were only a few of the tasks which occupied guidance and office pages this year.

Giving up a study hall in order to help RJR run more smoothly, these students soon learned to carry huge responsibilities, and work with many people.

YOUNG LIFE

RJR teens find religious motives

JOE VOGLER, active member of Young Life, helps take pictures for the annual.

Putting a spiritual emphasis on the lives of both Reynolds and Salem students, Young Life has become one of Reynolds' most versatile clubs.

Members of the club elect secretaries who bring spirit to the group with singing, skits, and various stunts.

OPEN to all Reynolds students, Young Life meets every other Wednesday at the home of its members.

Expressing themselves through design, many students joined the art club this year. Members of the artists' guild met several times a month. Discussing different forms and techniques of the art world, the club tried various methods.

Their well-performed duty won them a place in the trip to Tennessee with the band in May, and also a place in the hearts of the student body and faculty of Reynolds.

Shere Ader and Terry Brown, the two twirlers, added beauty and talent to the half-time shows.

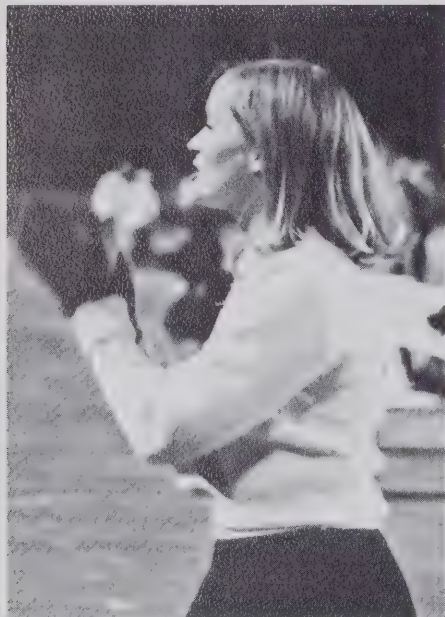

Warm praise and the satisfaction of doing a good job will make Shere and Terry always remember the twirling aspect of Reynolds.

ASPECTS of Our Sportsmanship

"Sophomores, Juniors, Seniors," rang out loud in Reynolds Auditorium, with students displaying school spirit and trying to "out-do" the other classes.

Although the more experienced voices of the seniors usually sounded out the loudest, each class continued to cheer with even more enthusiasm.

In times of defeat, Reynolds students still held their heads high because they were proud of their sportsmanship as well as their school.

Demons display depth, power

Speedster Stan Crews catches his breath after a long scoring jaunt.

Reynolds potent varsity football team, slashing opponents with quick running, and pinpoint passing; and stifling them with a swift, powerful, and consistent defense, finished the regular season with a perfect 10-0 record and captured the central 4-A title for the third year in a row.

Scrappy Gastonia Ashley dealt the Demons their only loss for the year. The Green Wave stunned the larger but less agile Demons by a score of 27-6 in the first round of state 4-A playoffs.

Despite the loss that Reynolds suffered at the hands of Gastonia, the Demons were one of the most talented and powerful 4-A squads in the state. Reynolds defeated eventual state champion Wilson Fike in the season opener, and consistently strong showings in regular season games indicated that the team might capture the championship this year.

Overall strength in all facets of play was one of the major reasons for the Demons' tremendous success. On defense, quick and powerful rushers and seemingly "radar equipped" backs plagued opposing offensive squads season long. Strong running, timely passing, and good blocking by the offense resulted in high scores for Reynolds throughout the season.

Reynolds' coaching staff, under the direction of Mr. Bryson, worked diligently with the individuals who wanted to play football to form them into a winning team.

To compile a perfect regular season record is no easy task for any team. For a group of high schoolers, loaded with talent but lacking in experience, it can be close to an impossible job.

Determined coaches called for workouts in August. Many of the candidates for the squad had been working with the coaches in the summer physical fitness program to work into shape. Exhausting hours were spent on the sleds, with the ninety-eight pound bell dummies, in drills, and in general conditioning.

With hard work and perseverance, the group began to shape into true streamlined and prepared units for the opening game on August 30.

Demon lineman sets up a clutch block to enable quarterback Dave Patella to escape tackles and pick up needed yardage.

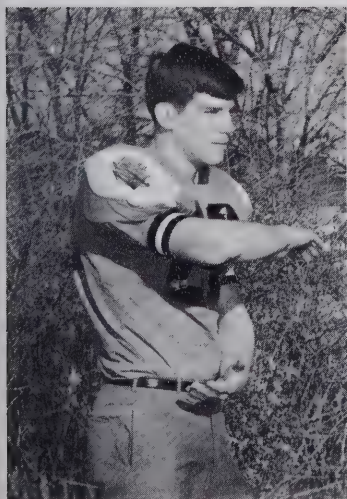

RJR DEMONS

Rugged line deftly executes blocking, rushing

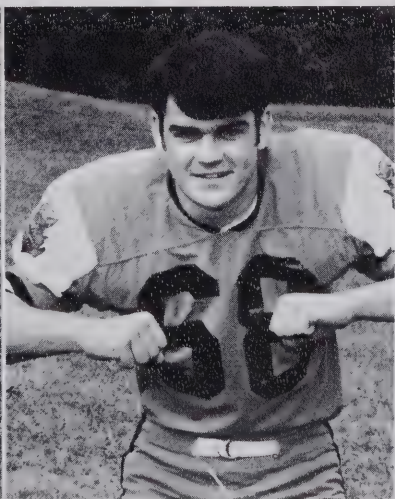

Three basic but important factors played parts in the development of this year's team. They were speed, blocking, and depth. Quick backs on both the defensive and offensive teams provided Reynolds with the speed necessary to outmaneuver and wear down opponents. Speedy Stan Crews, one of the finest running backs in the state; agile Conrad Graham, who ably picked up blockers who aided him in gaining valuable yardage on end runs, and powerful Thomas Little, who ripped through the line for solid gains, led a Demon running attack from the offensive back-field that rolled up tremendous yardage totals each game.

FOOTBALL

Opponents average 9.8 against tough Demons

Crews alone gains as much as 250 yards rushing in a single game. Mr. Hawkins and Mr. Cox worked with the talent-loaded offensive backfield to shape it into a potent unit.

David Patella's passing added depth to the Demon's offensive attack. Timely passing in Reynolds' battle with undefeated Atkins proved to be a major factor in the victory. Graham, John Jones, and Richard Bailey performed well as receivers during the season.

Again depth and speed was important to the Demons in the defensive backfield. The backs proved themselves each game by intercepting numerous passes and halting opposing runners who had gotten by the tough Demon line. Standouts in these positions were Conrad Graham, Keith Whitfield, and Curtiss Little. Russell Perry also performed well in pass defense.

Reynolds' defensive linemen, always the workhorses of the team, had a successful season this year. The defense overall held opponents to an average of only 9.8 points a game. Mr. Mitchell, Mr. Tesh, and Mr. Crater worked with all the linemen during the season to toughen them for the rough action they would encounter.

Taylor Marion, Bernard Buey, and Don Pope did commendable jobs this year of harassing opposing quarterbacks.

Strong offensive line blocking also played an important part in the Demon's overall success. The tough line allowed backfield runners to "get up a head of steam" by blocking out opposing rushers. Guards Stuart Lindsey and Keith Dull, and Tackle Conrad Baldwin led the blockers. Thomas Little added backfield blocking.

Tensions build in the game as Coach Bryson scrutinizes an important play while treading the sideline. Mr. Bryson headed the top coaching staff of the Demons.

J.V.s learn the ropes under Taylor

In their first outing, the Junior Varsity football team defeated a hard-fighting High Point team, 7-0. After running over West Forsyth, 26-7, the Junior Varsity suffered a hard decision against Burlington, 14-0. Meeting Greensboro Grimsley, the Baby Demons struggled to a 6-6 stalemate. The team then dropped two in a row to East and Page before trouncing Parkland, 19-0. In the last match, the Demons fell beneath North, 27-6.

Finishing their season with a 3-5-2 record, the Junior Varsity football team gained needed experience against tough competition. Coached by Clark Taylor, the Baby Demons demonstrated some fine sophomore and junior talent.

On offense, the passing of John Arzonico and the running of Tom Joyce led the attack. Ricardo Sockwell, as a pass receiver, also stood out. Mark Gardner, Bob Stewart, and Bob Deal supported the defensive unit with fine play.

Varsity basketballers pile up impressive string

Bennie Gentry outreaches Randy Beeson of East as Dan Traylor and Curtiss Little watch.

In their second season with the new head coach, Mr. Howard Hurt, the Demon basketball team completed another successful season.

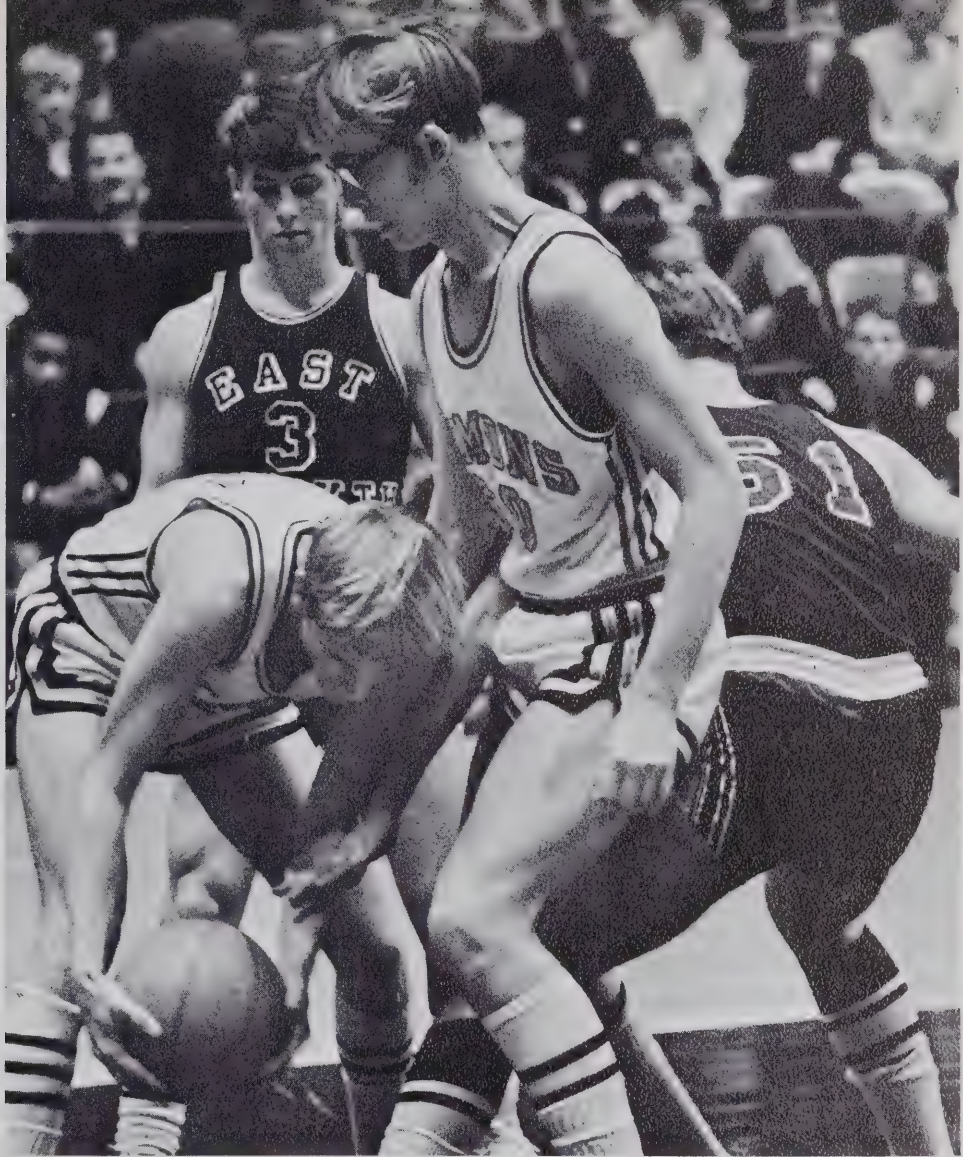

Starting off the year against non-conference foes, the cagers won ten straight with only a few close calls. The Demons, proving that they could play just as well in the conference or out of it, demolished East in the first Group II contest for both teams. In that game, Reynolds only allowed East one field goal in the first half.

On both offense and defense, 6'11" Dan Traylor led the team. His height enabled him to block shots and rebound well, plus intimidate the shorter opposition. Forward Curtis Little and guard Chris Turner were the other two senior starters. Little, moving well for a forward, had several high scoring games. Turner served as play maker and a good outside shooter. As a substitute, Nigel of victories

Alston turned in some good play. He demonstrated good moves and a sharp shooting eye under the basket.

Juniors Bennie Gentry and Eddie Pinnix also started for the Demons. Gentry, a forward, added power on the boards to the team. As a fast moving guard, Pinnix made up for his lack of height with speed and poise.

Speed, accuracy propel J.V. cagers to victory

Next year's varsity basketball team will include new members who through long hours of work have survived tough junior varsity competition.

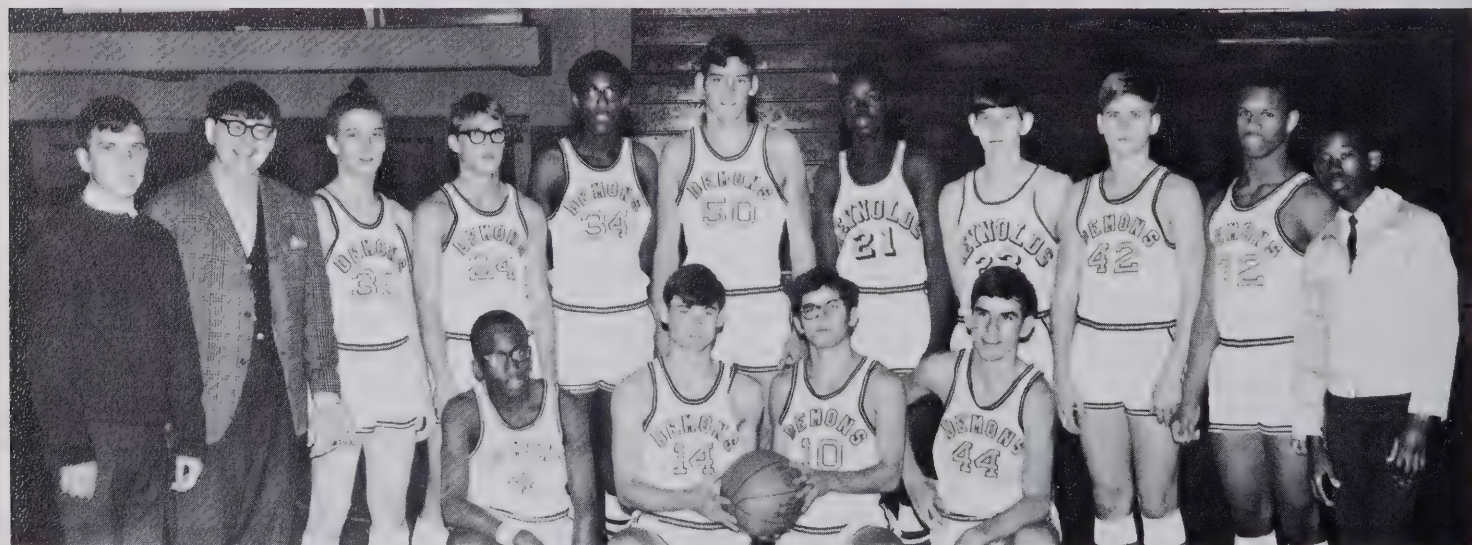

Coach Jack Tesh seasoned the varsity stars-to-be with rigorous workouts and instilled in them desire and winning spirit by presenting them with the challenge of "making the team." All-important experience was gained through competition with other JV teams.

Standouts on this year's team included quick ballhandlers Mark Rodgmen and Neal Robinson, and sharpshooting David Plummer.

Overall, the team compiled one of the best JV records of recent years. Teamwork and good defense helped the squad to defeat North, West, and East.

Playing tough defense as starting guard, Neal Robinson leaps to block a North opponent's pass.

Strong hitting, varsity experience powers Demons

Starting this year's season as reigning conference champs, the Demon baseball team worked hard to make a strong finish in the 4-A. Head coach Bob Cox and assistant Otis Hawkins guided the team.

With many of last year's starters back, the nine-man squad was made up mostly of seniors. Good pitching was a key to many of the Reynolds victories. An example of this was the 17-0 shutout of High Point in the first game of the season. Senior Jack Potter and Chappie Petree were starting pitchers throughout the year.

Standout hitters were first baseman Don Pope and left fielder Conrad Graham. Pope also made some clutch put-outs at his position in the infield.

VARSITY baseball player, Regg Lyle, expresses the Reynolds determination that drove the team onward.

POWERFUL batting form and strength were the products of long, hard afternoon practices.

Long hours of practice profit Demons

Senior Mike Wrege played as a quick shortstop. David Blevins sat behind the plate as starting catcher.

One of the team's best assets this season was its experience. Because of a large number of starters back, the players were able to work together as a team from the start of the season. A strong bench and good hitting power also enabled the Demon team to have a successful season.

RJR RUNNERS

Demon trackmen prove 4A power

With the efforts of many talented athletes, the track team completed another successful season. Even before the season began, many of the boys worked out in the weight training program. In addition to the weight lifting, several boys built up speed and endurance by running through neighborhoods near the gym as early in the year as January. When the weather warmed up, head coach Mr. Jack Mitchell and assistant coach Mr. Howard Hurt took the team out on the field. Sprinter Stan Crews and Thomas Little helped the team to make a strong showing in the running competition. John Ferguson and Art Barber, as long distance runners, scored many points for the squad. Senior Mike Stafford took honor in the discus and shot put events. Able sophomores and juniors also contributed to Demon wins.

Cross country runners compete in state meet

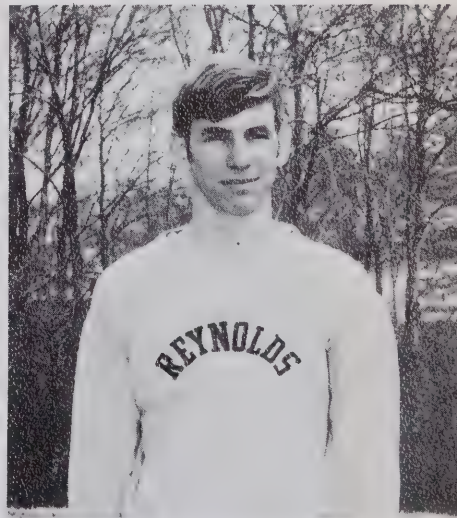

A five-school cross country meet starts at Hanes Field. Over seventy boys participated.

Reynolds' cross country team gave an all-out effort this season under the supervision of Coach Howard Hurt, who held stringent workouts every afternoon in the fall to shape the runners into the physical condition necessary to have a winning season.

Participating for the first time as a team in the state cross country meet, the team had one of its best seasons ever. During the season, the Demon runners competed in four regular meets and a sectional meet at Charlotte. With a record of three first places, one second place, and one tie, the team qualified for the state meet.

WRESTLERS

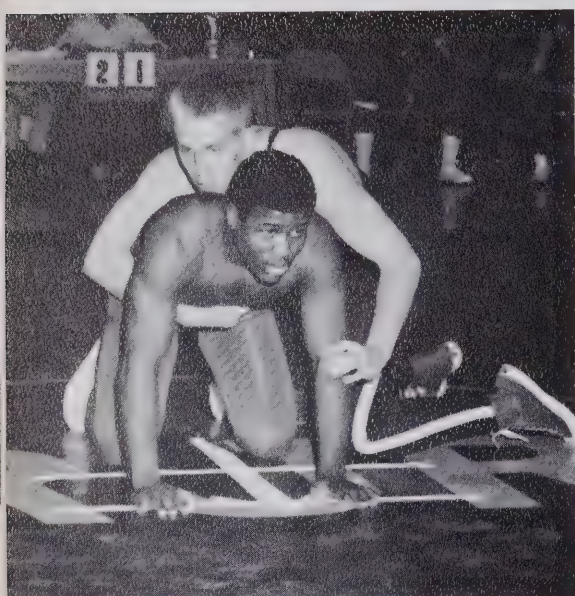

Grapplers work hard, finish high in conference

A large number of boys again this year vied for the weight classes of the varsity wrestling team. Rigorous workouts depleted the ranks of grapplers somewhat, but the Demons nonetheless came through with a strong and highly successful wrestling team.

In competition with other 4-A teams, Reynolds compiled an impressive regular season record, and also had a fine showing in the state meet that was held here in March. They defeated rival West Forsyth in regular season to take an undisputed number one position in Group II competition.

SWIMMERS

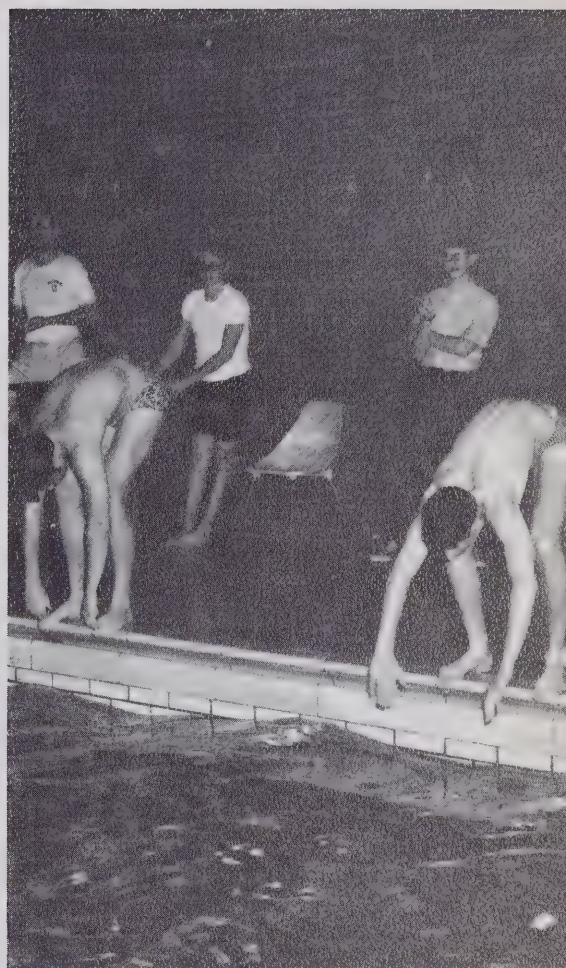

Swimmers glide to victories

Led by co-captains Jeff Davis and Ed Poindexter, the swimming team successfully compiled a winning season. Practicing three days a week in the YWCA pool, the swimmers built up stamina for the grueling meets. A new coach, Mr. Bill Sipes, kept the boys alert and in top shape. Swimming standouts were Chuck Poindexter and Bobby Johnston.

Opposing swimmers from Smith and Reynolds cross paths in the 400 meter medley relay event.

Athletes of all sports join in weight training

During the off-season, athletes do not have to lose their top physical condition. Under the direction of Mr. Herman Bryson, Reynolds offers a weight training for interested boys from any sport. Available from winter until the close of school, the program involves weight exercise in every major muscle group in the body.

Jimmy Hester, doing bench presses, exercises both his back and shoulder muscles.

Coach Bryson begins another weight training session by passing out sheets to record a participant's individual progress.

Tennis players and golfers win easily

Although there was no need to dip into its endowment, the golf team made a fine showing against their 4-A opponents. Showing spirit, determination, and skill, the team boosted a fine record, with seniors Ted Kulp and Russell Perry at the helm.

Pinnix, E., Williams, C. Thomas, G., Martin, B., Rohn, R., Transou, R., Perry, R., Kulp, T., Robinson, N.

Ledford victory highlights C.H. season

As a result of lack of depth and tough competition, the Children's Home football team finished the 1968 season with a 1-6 record.

The Methodists lost their first three games, but rallied to a 13-7 victory over Ledford. Mike Bowles and Gary Pinnix accounted for the touchdown. Because of the few players available to play for the Home, Children's Home will discontinue competition in the future.

Children's Home basketballers enjoyed their best season in ten years. The Fighting Methodists compiled an 8-6 record by mid-season under coach Don York and co-captains Gary Pinnix and Roy Beck.

Mike Gillespie played hard and ended up as one of the Home's top scorers.

Under the direction of Mrs. Joanne North, the Fighting Methodist girls demonstrated skills and abilities of a well-rounded team. These girls suffered through many tiring practice sessions in order to represent the Home well.

Girls trying out were freshmen or older, with satisfactory grades and deportment.

MONOGRAM CLUB

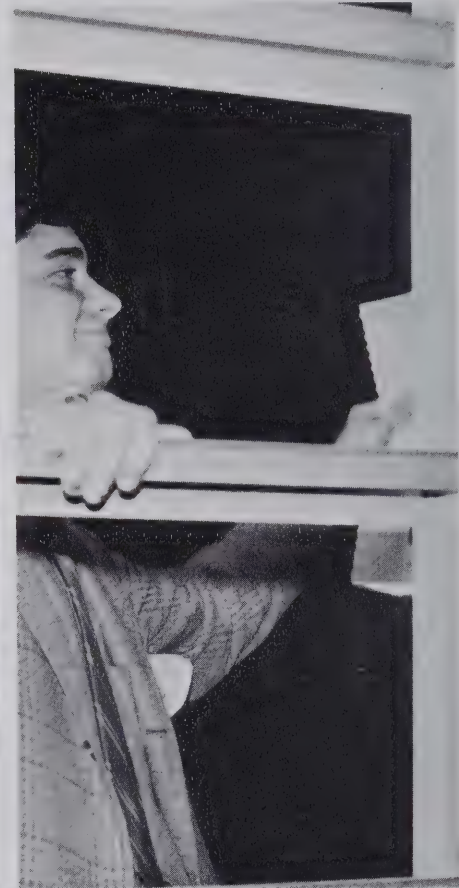

Monogram Club gives letter to best athletes

Comprised of the top athletes in all sports, the Monogram Club is one of the largest service organizations at Reynolds. With an enrollment of fifty-two active members, the club meets with sponsor Mr. Bob Cox in the Green Room.

During the fall and winter the boys ushered at basketball games and at wrestling matches. Along with their service to the school, the Monogram Club held a drive to sell cushions.

GAA

Dedicated girls participate in GAA

PARTICIPATING regularly in gym, a GAA member tries a new feat.

Every other Wednesday in room 222 the Girls Athletic Association held its regular meetings.

Led by Dale Durham, the girls discussed plans for activities and made any announcements at this time.

Composed of thirty-nine girls the G.A.A. carried on bake sales, varsity and intramural sports activities, and completed the year with their annual banquet.

At the banquet many deserving girls received honors ranging from certificates to state pins.

GAA overnight had its hilarious moments of self-expression.

GYM ASSISTANTS

Gym leaders give and direct girls calisthenics

Giving up their study halls, chosen junior and senior girls traveled to the gym each day to assist teachers with their classes.

Duties of the gym leaders included checking showers, running errands to the office, and at times rendering minor first aid.

Girls chosen as gym leaders showed qualities of leadership and dependability.

Row One: Womble, A., Hutchens, V. Row Two: Crawford, P., Bunce, R., Hall, B.J., McClesky, A.

Officials keep action in girls' games moving

Every intramural sport needs a referee to call the plays, score and keep time. These duties were performed by the Reynolds' Girls' Officials Club.

In order to become a member of this unique club, one must attend a clinic before each individual sport. These girls are then tested and those who pass receive a membership card. This year the training sessions were led by Alice McClesky and Mignon Durham.

After qualifying, the girls have a chance to demonstrate their skills for speedball, basketball, volleyball, softball and tennis.

Mrs. Brower spends much time teaching future officials the rules and regulations.

SPEEDBALL

Speedball team performs well

Girls on the bench rested from tough play.

Unaware of the warm brisk winds, twenty-six girls gathered on Reynolds' field ready to increase their skills in speedball.

Six seniors, eleven juniors, and nine sophomores led Reynolds' varsity speedball team to four wins and three losses to place third in the city.

Fast-paced and exciting speedball games often caused girl participants to cheer. Although the girls did not always come out on top, they showed good spirit throughout the season.

SPEEDBALL-the sport in which you can kick all your frustrations away.

Girl Cagers boast impressive record

Under the guidance of Miss Linda Nifong, this year's basketball team displayed top physical abilities and skills of a well-rounded team.

Competition is with many other area schools. The girls are also able to earn points for the GAA.

Servers prove tough against competition

Led by Mrs. Brower, nineteen girls represented Reynolds varsity volleyball team.

With the addition of a new gym the girls had time to practice long, vigorous hours to create a winning team.

Softball team works to improve skills

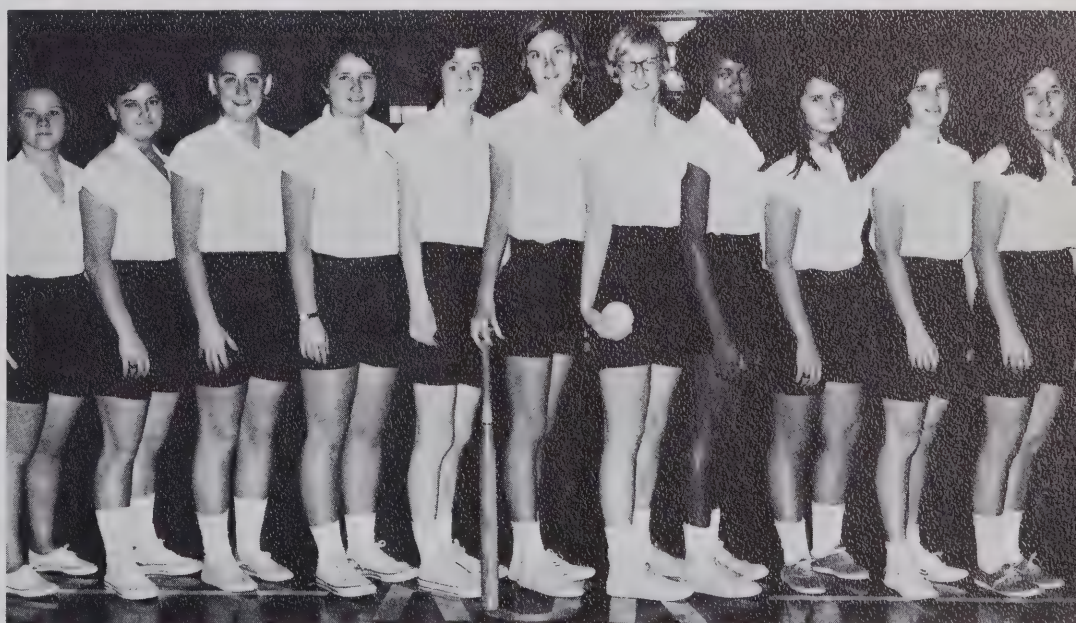

Practice for the 1968-69 girls' varsity softball team tryouts began in late March. This year sophomore, junior, and senior girls who had a C average and satisfactory deportment were eligible for the team.

After school practices and tryouts ended in the selection of seven juniors and four seniors. Sponsored by Miss Nifong, the team took on such tough competition as Parkland, West and North.

JUST before the game, varsity members received a pep talk.

ASPECTS of Our Highlights

Tense moments for all the Homecoming sponsors came and passed with exuberant winners and congratulatory losers.

Forty-five nominees and then the semi-finalists. Who would be the Black and Gold Queen of 1969? Athletes received honors as tribute to their hours of practice and brilliant performances.

The many honors awarded to students represent another valuable aspect of Reynolds.

Class History

A recapturing of our days spent at Reynolds would, no doubt, involve many experiences that will re-occur in our minds for many years. A favorite corner, a familiar corridor, a path, a locker room, victory hall, a pep rally, a cold football game, a warm track meet, the landing—all are simple yet cherished segments of our afterthoughts about our Reynolds Aspects. Moments of joy and sorrow, periods of ecstasy and depression, times of victory and defeat—these are the feelings that filled our years at Reynolds. As we separate, we now look at these years and decide for ourselves as to their magnitude. Here on a mere two pages are the memories of our three years at Reynolds together. The other memories of each student will have to be retained individually. Let us now recall some nostalgic, yet happy events of the past three years.

With fear, anticipation, and a sense of adventure, we gazed up at the proud old building set among the pines. Were we ready for the freedoms and responsibilities offered us here? Would we find here the answers to our questions about the future? When we had finally left this, our school, would we be able to take with us rich memories? The next three years would show who among us would make their mark. We looked; we listened, and then began our history

Congratulations on making the varsity football team! They can't call us punk sophomores now, with more sophomores than ever on the varsity squad. We must be good luck—winning the Central 4-A Championship!

Well, we finally made the big time and caught up with the juniors and seniors. After all those long hours in mobile unit, classroom, and in-car, we have our driver's licenses. Look out, upperclassmen!

NEDT's this year were unbearable! That ten degrees above zero froze my mind as well as my body. The heat was not on in the building, and we had to take the tests with our coats on!

Thanksgiving chapel was terrific! I'll never forget that boy's playing the part of the turkey in the Senior Service Club's skit!

Remember the first induction of the National Honor Society? We were too far up in the balcony to see a single candle; but when the chorus sang "Her portals," we all got misty-eyed.

The basketball team surely did well this year. Wasn't it great when they went to the state play-offs!

The snow really messed up our sixth period exam this year. None of us got to finish the exam, but it was a relief to get a little extra study time. Of course the snow had melted by the time we got home!

The Quaker Oats man was a memorable speaker. His talk on patriotism was the best chapel all year! It might have been more enjoyable had I been used to the altitude in the "peanut gallery" and my ears hadn't popped all through chapel!

The Key Club outdid itself this year with the Follies. "Summer in the City" was an original theme. I'll never forget the Dancing Boots routine to "The Shadow of Your Smile"! The Follies will be even better next year when "our" boys take part.

Our first final exams really left us exhausted! Somehow, though, we still found the energy to head for the beach.

Leaving the first year at Reynolds behind us, we realized that senior high school offered us more freedom and greater responsibilities than ever before.

JUNIOR YEAR

Juniors at last! No mere "typical sophomores" for us. Now we can push someone else around for a change . . .

The fall surely found our football team in good shape. A perfect season—we won ten consecutive games. Wasn't that Parkland game unbelievable!

Hey! How about physical education, with only two classes a week. I never did make above seventy per cent on that ridiculous North Carolina Physical Fitness test. And I thought I'd die when I had to run the mile and a half.

Remember all those tremendous pep rallies? And how everyone yelled "BEAT PARKLAND" during the whole program! I think it was mostly those dumb sophomores, though.

"Four score and seven years ago . . . uh, our . . . uh, forefathers . . . uh, brought fourth—"I'll never forget when we had to learn the Gettysburg Address. Let's see, was it "forefathers" or "fathers"?

It certainly was good getting out of school for Christmas! And wasn't that something when we missed all those days during exams because of the snow! But I still didn't study any.

WOW! What a basketball game! Did you see him dunk that ball? I thought that was against the rules. . . Well, there he goes again!

"Did you get that problem about taking the square root of the perimeter of that figure with seven sides and dividing that into its diameter to get the total area in cubic centimeters? No? I didn't either." Wonderful memories of College Boards. My eyes were about to pop out of my head after that horrible experience. By the way, do you remember that part about comparing Dante to Erasmus and . . .

The Key Club and S.S.C. rivalry became a little rough, didn't it? All in fun, I guess.

"Pull! Harder!" I thought we'd never secure that lighthouse in time for the Junior-Senior. But as it turned out, most of us went home before school was out that Friday that we missed classes. It really was a great dance. Remember the next morning when we were in the gym cleaning up and . . .

We still had to sit in the balcony as juniors. Those silly sophomores really bothered me with all their snickering and "typical sophomore" shenanigans.

The Drama Club's skit was a big change of pace. That was really funny when the curtain came down and someone's legs were still sticking out from under it!

It surely was hard studying for final exams and thinking about the beach. I was glad when my last exam was over and I could go down to the beach and forget about everything.

Our junior year at Reynolds had ended quickly, leaving us with many cherished memories and thoughts of days past. We were rising seniors!

SENIOR YEAR

Returning to Reynolds for our third and final year, we found many changes. In addition to the new students and teachers, there were the new gym and history buildings, parking lot monitors, and no final exams for seniors. Some of the changes were not so desirable as others—the new time schedule, plastic utensils in the cafeteria, removal of the snack bar . . .

Wasn't the Thanksgiving Program effective? The stage was covered with so much food—there was barely enough room for that turkey to get loose. The highlight of it all was the raising of the two flags presented by our class.

I thought the day would never come when we could laugh at the juniors hiking it down to the gym through rain, sleet, and snow. That's only one of the privileges of being a Senior!

This year's football Homecoming Game didn't present us with half as much competition as last year's, although it was a good game. To end the festive week was the annual Homecoming Dance, which we won't ever forget.

Remember in our history class how everyone said "history repeats itself." As an example, our football team could show off the 4-A cup won for the past three years.

What did you think of the nation's following the example we had set in our mock Presidential election?

The new band uniforms must have made our band look as well as they sounded, because again they won the trophy for the best band in the annual Christmas Parade.

I'll never forget all those four and five-page college applications, which we spent half of our time filling out. Then there was all that worrying and waiting before we knew exactly what was in store for us in the coming year.

The Industrial Arts Club certainly made the Christmas toy drive a huge success! Did you realize that club collected and repaired over twelve hundred toys, which we distributed among low-income families?

I thought graduation just meant making the grades; but there was the ordering of announcements, the measuring for caps and gowns, and the practicing for our final appearance as Reynolds students. How could we have made it without the Senior Executive Committee?

Can you imagine all the conceit one gets from writing this year in the second largest Reynolds annual ever published?

We must really rate! We're the first senior class in Reynolds history not to take final exams! Let's see, was it our great academic records or our great influence that caused this bizarre twist of fate?

Weren't we angels? Well . . . at least we looked like them in our caps and gowns at graduation.

Class reunion? We'll be having one every holiday across from the landing, when the Class of '69 converges at the old meeting place.

Upon leaving Reynolds we feel an emptiness—an emptiness, however, which new experiences soon will fill. Perhaps in later years, when these memories, so important to us now, come back to us, we then will appreciate truly the lasting influence of Reynolds Aspects upon our lives.

Graduates stand one last time on the steps of Reynolds auditorium.

As time to depart from her portals comes near, we can look back over the aspects of Reynolds through these pages.

First, Reynolds revealed her personalities. Each person played a part in creating a school of enrichment and enjoyment.

Organizations came next expressing aspects of Reynolds students to participate. Most clubs offered membership to any interested person. Others limited their membership according to

ASPECTS of Our Year

"Amid the pines she proudly stands," rings through our ears, as now, we depart from her portals. We are no longer dependent on the strength, wisdom, and guidance she offered. Now we go into the world to solve our own problems and discover the truths we learned from her aspects.
